Senate Committee's Questioning of Dulles Cloaked In Secrecy

Foreign Relations Group Interviews New Secretary of State On Administration's Policy on Formosa, But Won't Give News

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee questioned Secretary of State Dulles on the administration's new Formosa policy today, and sought to clamp on a tight lid of secrecy. Chairman Smith (R-NJ) gave out a statement saying there would be no announcement as to what took place at the closed door meeting or at future similar meetings. "The purpose of the consultative subcommittee is to provide a means for informal, off-the-record discussion between senators and policy-making officials of the executive branch," the statement said. "The Far Eastern subcommittee established a particularly close

Federal Tax Men to Help Make Returns

Local Agents Will Be In Office Here For Four Weeks

To assist Sedalia taxpayers in filing their federal income tax returns for 1952, internal revenue agents will be at the revenue office in the Sedalia post office Feb. 16-20, 24-27 and March 2-6, 9-13. Taxpayers who have not as yet filed their income tax return for 1952 are required to do so by March 15.

Those who are required to file declarations for 1953 must do so by March 15, with the exception of farmers, who have until January 15 next year to file their 1953 declaration.

A declaration must be made by every citizen or resident of the United States who expects to receive in 1953 either:

(a) Wages subject to withholding in excess of $4,500 plus $600 for each exemption—for example, $5,100 in case of a single person with no dependents; $5,700 in case of a married man, with no dependents, whose wife has no income; or

(b) Income from all other sources in excess of $100, provided the total income is expected to be $600 or more.

The four revenue agents who will give their assistance are Lacy Belt, H. C. Polson, Carl Bellamy and Keith Kriessler.

Pope Pleading For the Lives Of Rosenbergs

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican newspaper said today Pope Pius XII has interceded for Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, the atomic spies now under sentence of death in the United States, seeking mercy for them.

Vatican sources said they believed the Pontiff's action occurred well before President Eisenhower rejected clemency for the Rosenbergs on Wednesday.

Precisely how the Pope intervened was not disclosed in today's announcement in L'Osservatore Romano. The U. S. has no diplomatic representation at the Vatican and President Eisenhower's press secretary said in Washington "neither the State Department nor the White House has received any notification on this subject." He said he did not know whether such a clemency plea had been received by the Truman administration.

Emanuel H. Bloch, attorney for the Rosenbergs, said he welcomed news of the Pope's intervention. The Rosenbergs are Jews and the Communist press has been claiming that their sentence to the electric chair for passing American atomic secrets to the Russians is a proof of anti-Semitism in the United States. The date for their death is to be set soon.

Papal intervention on their behalf was disclosed in a brief, top of page one, item in L'Osservatore, which the Vatican often uses to release information it wishes made public. The wording made clear the Pope's action was being disclosed because of Communist press insinuations that the Pope was not interested in the fate of the Rosenbergs.

While the Pope not uncommonly intervenes on charitable grounds to try to save human lives, normally such intervention is kept secret, Vatican informants said.

Manslaughter Charged In Wreck At Marshall

MARSHALL, Mo., (AP) — Theodor J. Bredehoft Jr., 26 Thursday was charged with manslaughter following an auto accident on Wednesday night on U. S. Highway 65 near here.

Mrs. Austin Smith, 38, was killed in the accident. Her 14-year-old daughter, Judy Ann, was injured critically. She is unconscious in a hospital here.

Bredehoft also is hospitalized. He suffered a dislocated hip and lacerations.

Dr. C. L. Lawless, coroner, said he plans to hold an inquest next week if condition of the girl will permit her to testify.

DAMAGED RED LEGATION IN ISRAEL—The Soviet Union broke off diplomatic relations with Israel and demanded the immediate withdrawal of the Israeli legation from Moscow following the bombing of the Soviet legation in Tel Aviv, shown after the incident. The official news agency, Tass, charges that the bombing carried out the "clear connivance" of Israeli police. (NEA Telephoto)

Missouri's Biggest Need Is Rainfall

Moisture Deficiency Runs Back to Fall With Winter Dry, Too

By The Associated Press

Missouri's No. 1 need right now is some soaking rains. A backlog of moisture deficiency extending back to last fall, and even summer in some places, plus lack of substantial winter rains has left many parts of the state with little subsoil moisture.

There is moisture in the top soil due to light rains, but the water table in the soil below isn't deep enough to provide a reserve for the summer growing months. For instance, some farmers have reported reaching dry soil at a depth of two inches or less. Corn roots go down as far as six and seven feet.

Charles A. Helm, professor of field crops at the University of Missouri, said the situation in Northern Missouri is spotted, but it generally gets worse southward from the center of the state.

Unless there are rains soon, the Ozarks region will go into spring with the lowest reserve of moisture in recorded history. In the Springfield area the shortage of moisture is about 14 inches below normal.

Robert T. Thornburg, state commissioner of agriculture, says conditions are not as bad as they might be, but the serious lack of feed affects the population as a whole, the city consumer of farm products, as well as the farmer.

He explained that with feed conditions as they are, the farmer and stockman must either sell his stock or buy feed. The former case helps to create a shortage, thus contributing to the rising market. The second alternative results in higher costs, both for the farmer and the consumer.

"Somebody has to pay for it," he said, "and the way I see it the costs are borne by the farmer and the consumer, not the farmer alone."

Farmers have been forced to buy hay in neighboring states. At one time the Missouri State Highway Patrol counted as many as 300 truckloads of hay a day along one major north-south route.

While many things can happen in the weather picture between now and harvest time, Thornburg says he hopes for a bumper wheat crop in the state "are not too good."

The big hazard is for crops like corn and soybeans that will be planted on plowed land. They start with two strikes on them. A wet spring and summer can reverse the situation, give them too much moisture. At the same time rains are needed to supply them with sufficient subsoil moisture.

Lack of moisture in Grundy County, in the northern part of the state, has caused such a shortage in farm ponds and cisterns that tank trucks are busy night and day. Farmers have been buying water from the Trenton Municipal plant for both livestock and family use. Pasture and winter wheat have been affected, but County Agent Lelan Ryan says it is too early to determine the degree of harm done.

Recent rains have brightened the picture in Vernon County, but that section received only 25.01 inches of rain last year as compared with the annual average of almost 40 inches. County agents estimate that from 10 to 20 percent of the farmers are hauling water.

Slightly more than an inch of rain in January was of little help in relieving the situation in Jasper County. Spring river and other streams are low and some of the smaller ones have dried up. Most ponds are depleted or nearly so.

Over on the eastern side of the state farmers are expressing concern. Cape Girardeau County, for instance, had 2.67 inches of rain in January, but that is far short of the five-inch average for the month.

Pettis County has already exceeded its goal for the polio fund and is approaching the $9,000 mark for total contributions.

Scott Webber, county chairman, reports the goal of $9,000 already reached and adds the fund this year will go at least $1,200 above a year ago.

SAC Will Try To Keep SAFB Without Cuts

Members of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce went Thursday to a meeting at Strategic Air Command headquarters for the 2nd Air Force at Omaha, Neb., to learn how the Sedalia Air Force Base will be affected by Defense Secretary Wilson's halt-construction order.

They were assured by official spokesmen for the SAC that it considers the air force base here a "must" and that it would do all it could to prevent any cutback.

Chamber members who made the trip were John F. Zander, Jack Cunningham, Claude L. Boul, Chester A. Brown, Mike O'Connor and Kenzie Miller, who comprise the Chamber's air base coordinating committee of its military affairs division.

At Omaha, they conferred with Gen. R. M. Montgomery, chief of staff at Offutt Air Force Base there, Gen. Bondy, Col. Orvell and Col. J. Elliott, base material engineer of the 2nd Air Force.

Shriners Dance Saturday Night For Polio Fund

Sedalia's Shrine Club, already active in helping crippled children, will sponsor a polio benefit dance at Convention Hall in Liberty Park beginning at 9 p.m. Saturday.

Shriners maintain several crippled children's hospitals over the nation and the local members contribute toward these funds. However, they are sponsoring the dance for polio assistance just the same.

Nick Lewis is president of the club and Joe Smetana is chairman of the entertainment committee. They report Lee Brandt's orchestra will play for the dance.

Pensioners Donate To March of Dimes

Two women who live on only $5 per month after paying the other $50 of their old age pensions for their care, have donated $1 each to the March of Dimes fund here.

They are Mrs. Alice Wells and Mrs. Ava Welch, who make their home at Buena Vista.

Mrs. Welch suffered a fractured hip and spent a year as an invalid. She says she knows how it is not to be able to walk and she wanted to help youngsters, and others, who are afflicted with polio.

She Never Gave Up Her Profession Although Disabled--Miss Lettie Bratten, Sedalia Native, World War I Nurse, Dies In Kansas City

A Sedalia born girl, Miss Lettie Bratten, whose indomitable spirit carried her through service as a nurse in World War I, and who, although going through periods of illnesses and the loss of a left leg, carried on until she was forced to give up her activity as a registered nurse, died at 2 p.m. Thursday at Research Hospital, Kansas City.

She had been graduated at Research as a student nurse and, since she was unable to be on her feet, she had been back there in the supply department. Her early training impelled her to never give up in her desire to be of any aid possible to ones afflicted or suffering. She had been bedfast practically all the time since last Oct. 1.

Born in Sedalia July 2, 1882, she was a daughter of early day residents of Sedalia, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Hall Bratten, and was a twin sister of Mrs. Perry E. Pierce, 1115 East Sixth.

She spent her girlhood in Sedalia, later going to Kansas City to take nursing's training. She was with the first nurses' unit from Kansas City, No. 28, to leave for overseas in World War I. After the Armistice she was at St.

Controls Die On Thousands Of Articles

Even Some Metals Are Being Freed With Some Foods

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration today scrapped allocation controls on steel, copper and aluminum which is not claimed by defense priority-holders.

This action was announced by the Office of Defense Mobilization.

It marked a shift in emphasis in the rapid dismantling of the vast controls program which Eisenhower has promised to scuttle as part of the new Republican administration's pledge of a free market economy.

It is expected that only critical defense allocations and some rent controls will remain when the scrapping of controls machinery is complete by the end of April.

Effective at once, the three basic defense metals released may be sold by mills and used by civilian manufacturers without restraint.

The ODM action also means that production ceilings, such as the 1½ million limit on passenger car production each quarter, are ended as of today.

The "controlled materials plan," or allocation system will continue on this "open-end" basis until June 3, ODM Director Arthur S. Flemming said.

Eisenhower has announced some simplified machinery will be established to insure deliveries of the three basic metals to military and atomic energy claimants.

The order will mark another step toward a free economy and free markets.

And, with these moves toward dismantling the controls system, the government had tabbed some 2,000 price control workers for dismissal.

An order released late yesterday decontrolled such things as poultry, eggs, soaps, gasoline, crude oil and all rubber products. The list also included paper and paper products, shortening, most minor metals and scrap, paints and pre-fabricated houses.

All in all, they came to 15 percent of the items which comprise the cost of living index, leaving about 17 percent of these still under control.

Among those things still controlled are major items like milk and dairy products such as butter and cheese, olomargarine, dry groceries; cigars; beer; major metals including copper, luminium, steel and nickel; lumber; and the big household appliances.

The price order was the second within a week's time and a third is in the works, to be sent out within a few days. The first, issued last Friday, decontrolled meat and nearly all department store goods.

Another order the same day knocked out wage curbs.

Miss Bratten had been a member of the First Methodist Church, Sedalia, since early girlhood. She was a member of Ernestine Shuman-Heink chapter, Disabled American Veterans, Kansas City.

Surviving her besides her twin sister is a brother, Arthur H. Bratten, 512 West Fifth. A half-brother, Elmer Jacob Bratten, died Dec. 7, 1940 in the Veterans' Hospital at Leavenworth, Kan.

The body was brought to the McLaughlin Funeral Chapel where funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Monday, the Rev. Roy L. Bowers, pastor of the First Methodist Church, to officiate. Miss Mabel DeWitt will play organ music.

Farmers Criticize Benson

Congressmen From Farm States Hit His First Speech as Sec'y: Blame for Price Drop

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farm state congressmen fired harsh words today at the first official speech of Secretary of Agriculture Benson, also on the receiving end of criticism about falling farm prices.

Eisenhower administration farm officials are puzzled. Further, they hardly know what to do about complaints that Benson is not taking aggressive action to halt the farm price decline.

In St. Paul Wednesday night Benson advised farmers to rely more on themselves and less on government aid. He declared that "inefficiency should not be subsidized in agriculture or any other economy, and relief programs should be operated as such."

The farm officials aren't talking publicly about congressional complaints because they are still hopeful of maintaining close relations with the lawmakers. But they point out, in off-the-record discussions, that Benson has pledged to carry out faithfully all the price support programs set up by the preceding Democratic administration.

In no case, they say, has a price support commitment made by Benson's Democratic predecessor, Charles F. Brannan, been abandoned.

They also say that if Brannan were still in office and if he adhered to his previously stated farm price support policies, he would stand pat on present programs.

Most of the criticism of Benson's speech came from Democrats, gleeful over what they feel is going to be a key issue in the 1954 congressional elections, particularly if farm prices keep sliding.

But one Republican senator, Young of North Dakota, commented that "if President Eisenhower had expressed the same views in the campaign, he wouldn't have received the votes of the farm states."

Effective at once, the three basic defense metals released may be sold by mills and used by civilian manufacturers without restraint.

The ODM action also means that production ceilings, such as the 1½ million limit on passenger car production each quarter, are ended as of today.

Three Clinton Men Served Together, Never Were Apart

CLINTON (AP) — Three Clinton men entered the Army together three years ago and never were separated.

Bill Ballard, 24, William King, 24, and James Colson, 25, were inducted at Kansas City in February, 1950, were in the same company, same barracks at Camp Chaffee, Ark., were discharged together this week, and made the trip back to Clinton as a threesome.

"A more enjoyable trip than the one we made on that draftees' bus," was their comment on arriving home.

Friday The 13th Briefs

Nervous Today?

This is the nervous day—that is if you are superstitious—it is Friday the 13th. It was a relief to know that the black cat we saw this morning had white spots on it and that the ladder we walked on was at the side of the walk instead of across it, that we combed our hair without dropping the comb and all those hazards that are dangerous enough on any day—but more so on Friday the 13th.

Most people seem to have a pet superstition but most of them just wouldn't admit that it was Friday the 13th.

"I'm superstitious about only one thing," said a man, "That is a black cat. I always back up when I see a black cat." Then he told about taking his wife somewhere and while he was waiting for her a black cat went across in front of the car—he kept hoping that his wife would stay long enough that something else would come along and break the path—and finally along came a truck and when his wife returned the man went right on in the direction he was headed, the truck had cleared the way.

"I'm superstitious about dropping a comb," said a woman to which another woman replied: "Is that bad luck—I drop mine all the time—I guess that is why I keep on having bad luck."

"Another thing I'm superstitious about," said the first woman, "Is singing before breakfast—"

Again the second woman spoke up. "That's one thing I don't have to worry about—I don't even have to talk before breakfast—I certainly don't ever sing."

"I'm not superstitious about Friday the 13th," said a girl, "But I was two minutes early this morning instead of five minutes late as I usually am."

It's Les Hale's Birthday

"This is Friday 13," said Mrs. Leslie Hale to her husband, "You'd better be careful."

"Oh, Friday the 13th is lucky," replied her husband. "I was born on Friday the 13th."

"Lucky for who?" asked his wife.

But she thinks Friday the 13th did pretty well by her even at that, however, she sometimes worries about her rivals—she and their daughter—just second place to his dogs, especially to Teddy, his spry spaniel, who has the doggy duking of the litter, and once almost lost his life by getting his head caught in a can. He finally turned out to be a beauty, the color of chocolate candy, with marshmallow feet.

When the day began today, Peggy told Les to go to the store and get some orange juice, and of course the dogs needed food, too. And to prove her point Les came back just bubbling. He had really hit a bargain on dog food—and he bought a supply. But what about the orange juice she wanted? He had forgotten it. Does that prove anything about Friday 13th? Sure, she would have been plenty peeved but this was his birthday and she couldn't say a word—on any other day he would have been right in the doghouse with Teddy.

And what did she have for dinner for him today? Creamed tuna fish. When she first married him he wouldn't eat a thing except creamed tuna fish, baked beans, Heinz's baked beans they had to be, and potatoes. She got pretty sick of that diet. But he has improved with the years, says Peggy. Now he eats almost anything she cooks. But his favorite is still creamed tuna fish.

But his real birthday dinner was Thursday night at the home of his aunt, Mrs. A. C. Lueking. Besides his wife and daughter, his aunt, Miss Mary Hale of Kansas City, was there too. She started to work for the telephone company in Kansas City on the day he was born and her mother predicted the job wouldn't last because she started on Friday 13th.

It lasted until just a short time ago when she retired. His brother, Leonard of Topeka, and a Mr. Brunson of Topeka were guests at the dinner.

"Oh," he said, "lots of people have birthdays today—but we haven't found many." However, we did hear that Mrs. Richard Gorrell and one of her daughters have a double celebration and little Snookie Neal, tiny daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Warren Neal has one, too.

Lucky for Parkers

Proving it's a lucky day is the advertisement of the Mode O'Day Shop. The owners, Mr. and Mrs. James Leeders, announced that effective Friday the 13th they would start paying the parking meter cost of their customers.

Two More Coming

But there are three in 1953—today and in March and November. Only one is listed on the 1954 calendar in August.

Explosion Tears 12 To Bits

Parts of Men's Bodies Hurlled Over Big Area Near Powder Plant Where Blast Occurs

RICHMOND, Calif. (AP)—A flicker of flame and a wisp of smoke spurted from an explosive-mixing "dope house" at the Hercules Powder Company in nearby Pinole yesterday.

As workers rushed to fight the fire an explosion reduced the brick building to rubble.

Twelve men were torn to bits. Bodies and parts of bodies were hurled as far as 250 feet.

The explosion threw bricks from the building 700 feet. It shook four counties. It even got a reaction on the University of California seismograph at Berkeley 12 miles to the south. San Francisco, 20 airline miles away, was jolted.

An employee who declined to give his name said the "dope houses" were considered relatively safe from explosion. He said three had burned in the past four years without exploding.

Only two men were in the 25 by 50 foot brick building which was used for mixing "dope"—liquid incendiary dynamite. They presumably touched off the plant fire whistle which brought workers running. Then came the blast which "almost knocked our heads off," said workers farthest from the scene.

Those closer to the explosion didn't live.

Eugene D. Hatfield Hercules employment supervisor, said:

"We probably will never know the cause of the blast."

The FBI is investigating the possibility of sabotage.

Two construction workers, who were moving dirt only 150 feet from the explosion, escaped injury. John Mountjoy saw a small flame at the building, then "a little explosion, like a tank of gas going off."

He and three other men leaped into the scoop of a bulldozer Mountjoy was operating. Seconds later the big blast came.

Thieves Get 5 Guns at Essers Friday Morning

Thieves robbed the Esser Sales Corp., 914 South Limit (Highway 65), about 2:30 a.m. Friday, taking 22 caliber guns and a quantity of rifle shells valued at well over $100.

The thieves were seen speeding away in a dark colored sedan and police were immediately notified. Upon their arrival they found a side door had been broken open to gain entrance into the building.

The guns consisted of automatic 22 caliber Colt, three Harrington and Richardson 22 caliber pistols and a Hi Standard Sports King. Three cartons of 22 caliber short shells, one-half carton of 22 long, 2½ cartons of 22 long rifle shells, two or three boxes of shotgun shells were also taken.

A good description of one man, seen running to the car, was obtained as well as a description of the automobile, all of which have been given to the police.

Hofheims Named Scoutmaster For Jamboree Trip

Charles Hofheims, Sedalia, has been selected as scoutmaster for the Lake of the Ozarks Council Boy Scout troop which will go to the National Jamboree in California this summer.

Hofheims, scoutmaster of Troop 52 at the First Baptist Church, is planning also this summer to take his family for a three-weeks stay at the Boy Scout's Philmont Ranch in New Mexico.

George Kendrick of Slater and Charles Bailey of Eldon will be assistant scoutmasters for the Jamboree trip that includes visits to Rocky Mountain park, San Francisco, Hollywood, Salt Lake City and Catalina Island.

Crossroads Comment

By G. H. S.

"Retail customers go where they are invited; and come back again if they are treated right."

Ray Lippard, who is a right vocal exponent of the merits of the Missouri Highway 50 Association, believes the above axiom applies to tourist trade, which amounts to a quarter of a billion dollars in Missouri each year.

Lippard has found it comparatively easy to search out the deficiencies of Sedalia and other towns along the route of Highway 50 across Missouri in not promoting the many obvious aspects that should attract and interest tourists.

Points of historical or current interest are unmarked, and, as Lippard puts it, even the main highway entrances into Sedalia offer scant directional inducement for the travel-minded to find our business district. Also the unattractive, miniature, inadequate signs designating "Sedalia" at the city limits have incorrect population numerals.

Ray's inspirational suggestions, translated into action, may take time, but time's avastin' so his proposals should be given immediate attention by every citizen-minded Sedalian.

Protestant Woman Leader Says US Needs Great Religious Faith

CINCINNATI (AP)—The leader of 10,000,000 Protestant women said today that there are those in the United States who are "putting feet in the hearts of the people" and declared:

"We do not need a gestapo in the United States."

Mrs. James D. Wyker, a minister of the Disciples of Christ, as is her husband, is president of the United Church Women of the National Council of Churches of Christ in the U. S. A. She spoke at a luncheon of the council's division of Christian education, which is holding its annual conference here.

Mrs. Wyker, former president of the Ohio council of Church Women, emphasized that the greatest need in the United States today is for men and women "with a great religious faith."

She added, "what we are still more important than what we teach. Religion is caught as well as taught."

The noted church woman declared that in a family of nations, "we must learn somehow to solve the intricate problem of human relationships or mankind will not survive. The pioneers that are needed today will work tirelessly to find divine direction in these matters and will not try to rely upon their own strength nor upon military might alone."

Mrs. Wyker, who at present lives in Columbia, Mo., where her husband is on the faculty of the Bible College of Missouri, maintained that the only defense of this country's concept of freedom and democracy rests upon the security of the home life of America. She added that Christian education has the answers that will enrich family life.

She urged the church leaders not to be discouraged and praised the recent emphasis placed by the churches on strengthening family life, insisting:

"We cannot build a strong nation on top of broken homes."

Scout Troop Will Worship At East Baptist

The pastor, the Rev. Walter P. Arnold, announces his sermon topics for Sunday at the East Baptist Church as follows:

Morning, "Your Child and God" and evening, "Excuse Me, 5—1 Do Not Feel Like It." Boy Scout troop 33 of Jefferson School will attend the Sunday morning service in a body in keeping with National Boy Scout Week.

Gerald Hayworth, president of the Church Brotherhood, announces an interesting program has been arranged for the Brotherhood meeting at the church Monday at 7:30 p.m.

The Broadway Baptist Mission, opened at 2119 East Broadway this week by the church, will begin a two weeks revival meeting on Monday, Feb. 16, at 7:30 p.m.

The Rev. Frank Hood, newly elected mission pastor, will do the preaching, and the Rev. Mr. Arnold will lead the singing. Services will be at 7:30 o'clock each evening.

A youth evangelist is coming to the Church of God. He is Evangelist J. G. Seeley of South Carolina, who is state youth director of the Churches of God in Missouri.

The series of revival meetings at which he will speak is starting this weekend.

GOING TO ROME — The Rev. John Behen, who received word from Father Provincial on Jan. 15, that he is to serve as temporary secretary general of the community in Rome, is here for a visit with his father, E. S. Sunday School Lesson . . .

"Thy Kingdom Come"
BY WILLIAM E. GILROY D. D.

When we make that petition in the Lord's Prayer what do we mean by it and what should it mean to us?

One thing is certain. When we make that prayer in sincerity and truth the Kingdom has already arrived in our hearts and lives. The rule of Christ, His law of love, and the following of His example give evidence of our place in the Kingdom which is above all kingdoms and whose King is supreme.

If that rule is firmly established in ourselves it becomes a yearning, a passion, and a prayer that it might be established in all hearts, and in all the affairs of men.

It was in this way and in this spirit that St. Paul expressed the yearning when he replied to Acriana, who was almost persuaded to become a Christian: "I would to God, that not only thou, but also all that bear me this day, were both almost and altogether such as I am, except these bonds" (Acts 26:29).

In his love for those who persecuted him Paul had no wish that they be made prisoners like himself.

It is this yearning and prayer that is expressed in the next interpreting petition, "Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven."

There was a time not long ago when allegiance to the Kingdom of God conflicted with allegiance to the kingdoms of earth. In too many countries that conflict still continues or has been reasserted under cruel dictatorships in which godless philosophies and attitudes are manifest in suppression and persecution.

Even in the conflict of religious ideas and religious systems, those who had established the rule of God in their hearts have had to say, "We ought to obey God rather than men." Even in tolerant and democratic England it has been less than a century since civil limitations on Nonconformists, Roman Catholics and Jews were finally removed.

But today, in such democracies as Canada, the United States, and Great Britain, the evidence of almost revolutionary progress is seen in the fact that such conflicts of allegiance have almost completely disappeared.

The citizens of these great democracies who give their supreme allegiance to the Kingdom of God, far from being in conflict with the state, are better citizens because of loyalty and love for their fellowmen and for their loyalty to conscience and to God.

In this respect despite all our imperfections and in humility of spirit, a humility that we do not always manifest, these democracies might well say, "would that all nations and peoples were as we are" except for all the evil that democracy has not yet conquered.

So, in faith and hope let us pray, Evil carried in itself the seeds of destruction. "Hammer away, ye hostile bands; your hammers break, God's anvil stands."

Family Night For Stover Church On Next Wednesday

Family night will be observed next Wednesday at the Stover Baptist Church. A chili supper is planned with Mrs. J. E. Fry and Mrs. Homer Wainner in charge of serving the contributed meal.

The WMS topic is on the Mormons, the religion of the new secretary of agriculture, E. T. Benson. He is a member of the Quorum of Twelve Apostles, the governing body of the Mormon Church, and was formerly a Mormon missionary in Europe.

This topic should be of interest to farm folk because of the close connection between agricultural executives and boys and girls who are members of 4-H clubs.

Brotherhood Week Being Observed Across Nation

For centuries, civilization has fought to gain and preserve the basic human rights of religious freedom, tolerance and the brotherhood of mankind.

Our nation was founded upon just such principles. Devotion to them has helped build the spiritual strength without which America could never have achieved lasting greatness.

We think it is indeed fortunate that a nationwide organization, the National Conference of Christians and Jews, has been dedicated to keeping those ideals alive. We believe it to be of everlasting importance that a free people never lose sight of the necessity of spreading the kinship of man under God.

This is, of course, a year-around proposition. But since 1934, a Brotherhood Week has been held annually under the auspices of the Conference to dramatize universal dependence on the need for true religion in the crusade for liberty and democracy. This year, Brotherhood Week will be held the week of Feb. 15-22.

Now perhaps more than ever before, America faces a challenge from a godless philosophy that would destroy all human dedicated to keeping those ideals alive. The nation is pouring out its wealth to build material strength against the threat of Communism. But despite this, the united cause against the enemy could be weakened were we to become divided by intolerance and bigotry.

Acceptance of the meaning of Brotherhood Week can help build up the spiritual and moral power vital to this fight. This newspaper is proud to support the week and urges the public to participate.

Miss L. Bernard Becomes Bride Of C. W. Bolton

Miss Lucille Bernard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse A. Bernard, Bedford, N. H., became the bride of Mr. Charles W. Bolton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Bolton, 400 West Fifth, at a double ring ceremony performed by Rt. Rev. Msgr. Ernest Vaciares in St. Edmund Church, January 10 at 9 o'clock in the morning.

Floral setting of white snapdragons, chrysanthemums and gladioli decorated the church for the nuptial mass for which Mr. Maurice Therrien was violinist and Miss Germaine Pellerin, organist.

Given in marriage by her brother, Maurice, the bride wore a gown of candlelight satin and nylon tulle fashioned with cathedral length train. Her fingertip length veil was draped from a satin headdress trimmed with seed pearls and she carried a mother of pearl prayer book topped with a white orchid and caught with lily of the valley streamers.

Mrs. Claire Bernard as matron of honor wore a toast lace and tulle gown with matching feathered hat and carried a bouquet of pompons in complimenting shades.

Miss Barbara Mons, junior bridesmaid, chose a gown of pink taffeta and tulle with matching headdress and carried a colonial bouquet of pink rosebuds.

Mr. Donald Bernard served as best man.

Following the ceremony the wedding breakfast was served in the Camellia Room at Hotel Beau Reve, Bedford, with a reception following. Miss Sophia Zouliak was in charge of the bride's book.

The couple left for a week's honeymoon in the White Mountains of New Hampshire. For traveling the bride wore a black two piece suit with matching coat and white feathered hat.

The bride is a graduate of West High School and Hesser Business College and is employed as secretary to the credit manager at Sundial Shoe Company.

The bridegroom graduated from Sacred-Heart High School and attended Central Missouri State College for three years. He is a member of Kapa Sigma Kappa fraternity. He has served in the Navy Air Corps the past two years and is now stationed in Iceland.

'Just Around Home'

MRS. ROY L. BOWERS
Garden Club No. 5

Sometime I wish there were more hours in the day. Seems the time is always running out. I often wonder what we do with all the time we save with our mechanized house—cleaning gadgets. Just a year ago now I was helping my parents celebrate their sixtieth wedding anniversary. Naturally they did much reminiscing, recalling those hard and difficult years of getting a home established, a family reared, a farm paid for. Well do I remember our first carpet on the floor. I'm sure no child ever was more thrilled. It was a "hit and miss" rag carpet stratched over a nice, soft bed of straw. Mother was proud of it too for she had sewed every rag with which it was made. I am sure she didn't appreciate it so much, though, when she had to sweep it with the broom. Of course, a large part of the dust went right through the carpet and into the straw and settled on the floor. At house cleaning time the tacks had to be taken out of the carpet, the carpet taken up and put over a fence or clothesline. Then the children came in handy, for it was "beating time". It had to be beat and beat until no more dust could be seen coming from it. Sometimes it even had to be ripped apart and all those long strips washed. I still wonder how they did it without a washing machine. All that dusty straw had to be carried out and burned and a fresh supply brought in. It seemed everything had to be done the hard way. The only refrigeration we had was the cistern in which the milk was swung down on ropes, but I know that surely tasted better than what we have now (except in the spring when the cows ate wild onions). While I have many happy memories of those days, I'd surely hate to give up all our nice time-saving electrical gadgets; but I still wonder where all that saved-time goes.

Of course, our mothers didn't have to "break their necks" to get their work done so they could go some place. Here I am, hardly caught up from our trip to Texas, until I'm getting ready to go back again. Seems that we can hardly go—for going.

Even so, we still get in a lot of good licks around home in between the "goings". These fine days we've been having one of the garden and house-cleaning fever. The little sweet violets are already putting in their appearance just outside the kitchen door. The tulips and daffodils seem to think it's March instead of February. Have you been intending to bring in a few bunches of Pussy Willow to force but these warm days have been doing their own forcing, and our whole tree is full of "pusseys".

As for house-cleaning, I can see one remaining feature in the grime and stain on the outside of the windows. It surely filters the light so the African Violets won't burn. I am so thrilled with my new markers for my violets. They are little white plastic markers that stick down in the pot. The name is written on them with lead pencil and can be erased and used over and over. Surely an improvement over writing on the pot or a piece of tape stuck on the pot. Less danger of losing track of the plants, too. Right now I have a beautiful young plant just beginning to bloom for the first time and I haven't a ghost of an idea what it is. The label lost off some time. A plant without a name can be beautiful but it's a lot of fun to keep up with names. I wonder if they may run out of new names some of these days. New ones just keep coming and each one sounds exciting.

The average income per family in the United States is about $3,300.

Kansans Ask Income Check Of GOP Head

TOPEKA, Kan. (P)—Kansas legislators today asked an investigation of a 1951 state business transaction in which C. W. (Wes) Roberts, now the Republican party's national chairman, received a reported $11,000 fee.

A lawmaker raised the question of lobbying and said he could not find that Roberts was registered as a lobbyist at the time. This is required by state law.

Roberts declared: "There is no mystery about any part of the entire transaction. I have never engaged in any lobbying at any time."

He said it appeared to him "somebody is trying to stir up a cyclone in a thimble."

An insurance firm reported yesterday it paid Roberts $11,000 to negotiate the sale of a building to the state in 1951. Roberts at that time was in public relations work.

The State Legislature appropriated $110,000 to buy the building. State Sen. W. D. Weigand, a Republican who also was a member of the 1951 legislature, said:

"I would consider that Mr. Roberts was engaged in lobbying activities. I definitely feel there should be further investigation of this matter."

Roberts, in Washington, issued a statement saying that "as a private citizen I was legitimately employed in my capacity as a public relations counsel to prepare the facts concerning the hospital building for presentation by my client to the proper state agencies."

Officials of these state agencies determined the legality of ownership and the fair value of the structure and recommended the appropriation. My compensation was paid for services, rendered to my client, a private insurance company."

The building was constructed in 1928 on state property at the Norton, Kan., tuberculosis sanatorium. The cost was listed in state architect records at $47,048. An architect was built in 1933 costing $14,276.

At the time the legislature made the $110,000 appropriation in 1951 the insurance firm carried book value of the building at $17,000.

The firm is the Ancient Order of United Workmen.

Details of the transaction were disclosed following an inquiry by State Insurance Commissioner Frank Sullivan. Sullivan asked the insurance company to explain why its annual statement showed only $99,250 received for the building when the Legislature appropriated more.

A state law requires all lobbyists in the Legislature to be registered. Sen. Weigand said he could not find Roberts' name on file.

The national GOP chairman said:

"It is my understanding that the Kansas law requires any person to register who, for a fee, attempts to persuade members of the State Legislature to vote one way or another on legislation."

Roberts emphatically avoided any such activity and advised my client in advance that under no circumstances would I lobby in this matter nor in any way do anything inimical to the state's interest.

"I therefore never considered registering as a lobbyist. It was my opinion then and it is my conviction now that there was no legal, ethical or moral reason to do so."

BOY SCOUTS SHOW FIRST AID training by carrying a very badly "wounded" dummy on a stretcher. The "victim" is now resting easily in the window of the Missouri Public Service Co., where Scout Troop 69 has its Scout Week display. These 69'ers carrying the stretcher include, left to right, Bob Heuerman, Delbert Kaiser, Arthur and Jerry Bethke. The dummy was used by the boys for demonstrating various bandages and he has all but one of the major "wrap ups" taught in the Red Cross first aid course the boys are now taking. His wounds have required a head bandage, sling and broken arm bandage, with splint, right leg compound fracture bandage with splint, left knee bandage, left hand bandage, and an eye patch. Eight Americans Die In Japan Plane Crash

TOKYO (P)—An amphibious air rescue plane crashed in Southern Japan today and all eight Americans aboard were killed. The Air Force said today.

The dead included an Army sergeant, his wife, a nurse and five crew members.

The SA16 plane, en route on an air evacuation flight from Beppu to Ashiya, in Southern Japan, crashed two miles southwest of Moji on Honshu Island.

An Air Force spokesman said the amphibian crashed into the side of a hill or mountain shortly after noon. He said the cause had not been determined.

The sergeant's wife was a patient aboard the plane. She and her husband had been picked up at Beppu.

The newspaper Asahi said the plane burned immediately after the crash.

Hal Boyle's Column-- He Doubts Mrs. Robb's Woe That Females Are On Way Out

NEW YORK (P)—Ladies, do you feel dommed? Is the female of the human species on the way out? This fascinating possibility of a womanless world is not meer-scham dream puffed up by a mere grumpy old male.

The average man today may have his grudges against the unfair sex. But his attitude toward women is pretty much that of a sportsman toward racehorses: He would like to improve the breed—not abolish it.

Are such efforts to achieve the better woman too late? A pioneer lady commentator apparently believes it is.

"Women, who have brought this fate on themselves, are on the way out, like other biological caprices of the past," wrote Inez Robb, noted war-of-the-sexes correspondent and long one of the feminist movement's leading stateswomen.

"We women are simply terrible, not worth a fraction of the time and reform efforts lavished upon us by the opposite sex."

Predicting the tension between the sexes would end in the complete elimination of the present female sex—at least as we know it today—Mrs. Robb gave this gloomy forecast:

"Like all species that have refused to adapt, we are on the way to oblivion. It is inevitable that man, creator of the atom bomb and the mechanical brain, will eventually invent a more satisfactory something to replace women."

Such a glum outlook sounds like heresy to the ordinary American male, who stubbornly clings to the theory that with proper care and training a good man can turn almost any modern woman into a human being. And a scientist I talked to said Mrs. Robb was putting the cart before the horse.

"Science will never develop a satisfactory substitute for women," he said flatly. "Where would you start? It works the other way around. It was by studying women that science got its ideas for the harrow, the plow, the atom bomb and the mechanical brain."

"But cross-breeding these inventions wouldn't create a desirable ersatz woman. You'd just have feminine chaos with an electronic feminine accent."

Other male authorities contest Mrs. Robb's theory that women are in danger of vanishing.

"The sex does have its fossil forms, but I see no signs they are dying out," said one anthropologist, who preferred to remain anonymous.

"Actually women are flourishing more in this civilization than the bull weevil. There are more of them all the time, they are living longer, they control more money, and they are growing bigger and stronger. Haven't you noticed how much easier it is for them to push a man out of the way now than it was 10 years ago?"

And a husband I consulted said: "Wives are certainly getting historical every year. But extinct? No! Most of them haven't even caught their second wind."

But the most interesting summary of the whole matter, I felt, came from a white-haired old bachelor who said:

"Son, the easiest way to kill a woman is with flattery. They can weather anything better than that. That is why men have to be careful not to appear too grateful to women for being the fine people they are. They are afraid they will praise women to death."

Most women—along with Mrs. Robb—will probably agree their sex is in no present danger of becoming extinct from this cause. But it should cheer them to know the real reason why men sometimes fight so hard against showing how much they appreciate sharing a world brightened by so many lovely ladies.

They just don't want them all to die of praise.

NEW YORK (P)—Marianne Mulender, Belgium's entry in the "Miss Universe" contest a year ago, has come back to America to become a U. S. citizen.

NEW YORK (P)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey says the Eisenhower administration will work for world peace through a positive foreign policy that will be "made in America."

The United States he adds, will "no longer sit idly by watching the free world dismembered piece by piece" and "American policy will no longer be made in the Kremlin."

The governor, a chief supporter of Dwight D. Eisenhower for the presidency, made the declarations last night in a speech at the 7th annual Lincoln Day dinner of the National Republican Club of New York at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

At the outset of his speech, Dewey said he was speaking "for myself and, of course, not for the administration."

Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr., the other major speaker said an improved loyalty program for federal employees "is well under way and within a short time we will be able to give you the details."

Brownell said that under his direction the Department of Justice has devised an "objective test" that will be fair to every federal employee.

"We think," he added, "that it will end the atmosphere of suspicion and distrust. It will also end the protracted delays in loyalty screenings that have hurt the innocent as well as being slow in accomplishing the task of weeding out the disloyal employees."

The dinner was attended by more than 1,000 persons.

Dewey told the assemblage that Secretary of State Dulles on his recent trip to Europe had given "a great lift" toward a united Western Europe which would be the greatest force for world peace.

Kewpie Cagers Meet Tigers Here Tonight

Judging from the speed with which Smith-Cotton coach Howard Glavin pushed his charges through Thursday's practice, he (1) was not too impressed by the Tigers' victory over College High Tuesday night and (2) expects another slamb-bang basketball contest here tonight against the Columbia Kewpies.

There was no special emphasis on any phase of play Thursday as an offensive or defensive standpoint, but plenty of stress placed on hustle.

Working as the first unit in a long, full-court scrimmage against the B. team, were Ray Homan, Don See, Larry Benson, Bobby Case and Buck Bennett, with Kenneth Buhlig and David Menefee seeing plenty of action.

Tonight the local club seeks its fifth Central Missouri Conference victory against four losses, one of them to the Kewpies, 59-57.

In that encounter, played Jan. 15 in Columbia, big Bill Young dropped in 26 points to boost the Columbia five to its only CMF win of the campaign.

Quite naturally, the Sedalia defense tonight will be pointed at the big center, if he plays.

But the latest word from Columbia is that Young, out with the mumps for more than a week, will not see action. He was in uniform Tuesday as the Kewpies lost a one-point decision to Booneville but did not play and reportedly is a week away from much duty.

His place on the firing line was well-filled however, by jumping-shooting Ken Roberts, who bucketed 28 points against Booneville. This impressive total is only one shy of the Kewpie school record, set by Young last month against Fulton.

Another bit of good news, from the Sedalia standpoint, is that regular Kewpie guard, Bob Marshall may not be ready for tonight's contest due to an attack of flu.

With the return of Benson to full-time duty, the Tiger squad, now trimmed to only one senior (See), is in top shape. The only injury apparent Thursday was a skinned knee to Case, which failed to slow him down.

Going into tonight's play, here are the standings in the Central Missouri Conference:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Jefferson City	7	1	.875
Hannibal	5	3	.625
Smith-Cotton	4	4	.500
MMA	4	5	.444
Kemper	3	4	.429
Columbia	1	7	.125

Tonight's SMC schedule features, other than the Columbia-Sedalia encounter, Hannibal at Jefferson City and MMA at Kemper.

This Week's Results
Sedalia 62, College High 56.
Hannibal 63, Columbia 62.
Hannibal 42, Kemper 42.
Jefferson City 50, MMA 32.

Wichita. Last Placer, Dumps Oklahoma Aggies

WICHITA, Kas. (P)—Wichita, last place team in Missouri Valley Conference standings, scored a startling basketball upset last night by knocking off first place Oklahoma AM 73-62.

It was the Aggies' first conference loss, but the nation's ninth ranked team still holds the top Valley spot with a 5-1 record. Wichita, hitting 53 per cent of its field shots, continually seeped through the vaunted Aggie defense which has made them the country's defensive leaders.

Cleo Littleton a sophomore, was high for the Shockers with 15 points to bring his college total to 926—one better than the Wichita total record set by John Friedersdorf who played three seasons.

Wichita (2-5) is now tied for last place in the conference with Detroit.

In other games across the nation Duke nipped Wake Forest 101-99, in an overtime Southern Conference game Pitt edged West Virginia, 67-65. Utah State downed Colorado AM, 74-61, and St. Johns "B" squeezed by Westminster (Pa.), 69-68, in the feature of a twin bill at New York's Madison Square Garden.

LaStarza May Toss Caution to the Winds When He Meets Layne

NEW YORK (P)—Urged by Rex Layne "to come out and fight" to throw La Starza was expected to show some of his caution aside tonight in a bold bid to knock out the Utah heavyweight and earn a title crack this summer.

The 24-year-old Layne, No. 3 heavyweight contender from Lewiston, Utah, and La Starza, ranked No. 4, collide in a Madison Square Garden ten rounder. The 9 p. m. (CST) bout will be televised coast to coast by NBC.

La Starza is rated a 7 to 5 choice to whip the Rocky Mountain husky in a scrap that has the experts guessing. There is no one-sided opinion for this one as there was for the Chicago Kid Gavilan-Chuck Davey affair.

The winner of this battle is almost a cinch to earn a shot at the winner of the April 10 title bout between champion Rocky Marciano and Jersey Joe Walcott.

Automotive Hint

A BB shot dropped into the end of the valve stem will help inflate a tire when the valve has been creased so far into the stem that the airtight connection will not depress it. The shot, of course, must be removed before replacing the valve-stem cap.

'Fantastic' Phog Calls His Jayhawks

LAWRENCE, Kas. (P)—Volatile Coach Phog Allen needed only one word today to describe his Kansas Jayhawks.

The word is: Fantastic.

His team is atop the Big Seven Conference standings—something he and many others never expected.

Last summer after we'd lost practically all of our Big Seven and NCAA championship basketball squad I could dream of no more than three conference victories this season," Allen said.

"And that I thought, was a wild dream."

The dream got thinner when Charlie Hoag, one of the seven men he furnished the U.S. Olympic championship squad, suffered a football injury that ended the Oak Park, Ill., boy's athletic career.

But only three days ago the Jayhawks climbed into first place in the Big Seven race by dumping Oklahoma the league leader from the first week of firing, 87-59.

The Kansas take on Nebraska at Lawrence Saturday night with a 5-2 Big Seven record and 11-4 for all games played.

"This team amazes me," said the dean of the nation's cage coaches who has turned out 26 champions or co-champs in 44 years of teaching the sport.

"In personnel we don't compare with our team of a year ago or many other teams I've had in 36 seasons here."

Gil Reich, ex-West Point star, and B. H. Born, 6-9 replacement for the great Clyde Lovellette who remodeled the NCAA tournament scoring records last year are doing extra well according to Allen.

"But it wouldn't be fair to single out any one of my skinny legged young lads this season," he exclaimed. "All of them are giving it everything they have."

They are probably making more fouls than any team in the nation but it's due 100 per cent to our hustling, pressing defense.

Kansas' starting lineup is the smallest in the conference. Replacement for the towering Born is Harold Patterson, who stands 6-2. Brothers Allen and Dean Kelley are 5-11 and 5-11 1/2, respectively. Bill Heitholt is 6-3 1/2.

Allen mentioned that he still picks Kansas State to win the Big Seven championship.

"K-State has lost only two, and we have to play them at Manhattan March 17," Phog said. "They are almost unbeatable on their home court."

Casey Won't Guess on How Yanks Finish

By CASEY STENGEL
New York Yankees Manager

GLENDAL, Calif. (P)—Don't ask how we'll finish this year because I won't even venture a guess. But I'll say this. Whoever wins the pennant will have to beat us. I believe we have just as good, if not a better chance, than we had last year.

We haven't done anything to strengthen the club but it was strong enough to win last year and it got better as it went along. It has class of a champion.

What is that class? Ability to win on the road. The 1952 Yankees won the pennant on the road and don't forget it.

I was prouder of my '52 club than any of my previous championships.

Don't get the idea that I am complacent and satisfied. I'm not. We still have a couple of things to think about. For one, our pitching staff is somewhat older. Allie Reynolds, Eddie Lopat and Vic Raschi, our big three, are well past 30. I have an idea they'll still be pretty good this year but you cannot afford to take any chances.

We've got to have another good starting pitcher.

We have a good one coming back from the army in Whitey Ford. I sure hope he has as much stuff now as he had when he helped us win in 1950.

Also, Bob Kuzava, who seems to save his best work for the World Series, is about due to earn himself a starting role. He's got everything a pitcher needs to be a big winner.

Another concern is Phil Rizzuto. The Scooter is still the best shortstop in baseball, but he is beginning to wear a little thin around the edges. He was physically spent after the World Series and had to rest up for 10 days in a hospital.

I don't know how severe the condition of his is. One thing I know. He'll do a minimum of work during spring training. He's not going to start the season tired.

Jim Bredeweser and Andy Carey will get a thorough chance to become Phil's understudy.

There are a couple of young outfielders I'm anxious to get a good look at. There is Art Schult, just out of the Army, who hit pretty good with Birmingham a couple of years ago. Then there is Bill Renna, who was in Kansas City last year.

I'm also going to look at Bill Skowron, who led the American Association in everything but stolen towels while with Kansas City last season. He's still on their roster, but if he shows me something, it's a cinch he'll be brought up.

I know this won't be an easy race. Right now, I'd say St. Louis, Chicago, Cleveland and Boston are stronger.

I don't expect to make any changes in the lineup. We won with the last one—why change?

Sugar Ray Thinks Gavilan Doesn't Have Much of a Punch

CHICAGO (P)—This will come as a surprise to Chuck Davey, but Sugar Ray Robinson doesn't think Welterweight Champion Kid Gavilan packs much of a punch.

Davey was knocked down four times in Chicago Stadium Wednesday night as Gavilan won on a 10th round TKO.

"Gavilan isn't a good puncher," said Robinson as he arrived in Chicago yesterday to fill a theater date. "By that I mean he isn't a destructive hitter. I fought him twice and I know he is very clever."

Robinson, who retired as middleweight king to take up a dancing profession, said he thought Gavilan would be wise to leave the welterweight ranks and go for the 160 pound title.

S-H Grade School Teams Win Two Over Green Ridge

The Sacred Heart Grade School teams scored a double victory over Green Ridge Thursday afternoon in games played on the local court. The boys won in basketball 33-15 while the girls won in volleyball 32-24.

Edna Hall of Sacred Heart and Bullard of Green Ridge tied for scoring honors, each getting 13 points. Mark Mettler was second in scoring for Sacred Heart with eight points.

In the volleyball scoring Edna Hall led Sacred Heart with nine points and Ruffin was the Green Ridge leader with 10 points.

Basketball Teams Play To Aid March Of Dimes

The March of Dimes will be the winner in next Monday night's basketball contest between the Tipton High School Cardinals and the Pintos of California High to be held in the Tipton Gymnasium.

There will be two games, between the schools' B-teams and varsities.

Toby Lademann, Moniteau County chairman of the National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis, is in charge of the contest's arrangements.

The first encounter, between the B-teams, will start at 7:30 p.m.

A contribution of 40-cents is the admission price.

Joe DiMaggio Feels Yankees Can Repeat

SAN FRANCISCO (P)—The retired Yankee Clipper, Joe DiMaggio, says the New York Yankees should win the American League pennant this year with Cleveland second.

"I can't see any team beating the Yankees," he said yesterday while visiting relatives. "They are the best club on paper. This should be one of the greatest New York clubs."

"Cleveland may be a little too erratic in the infield and to tighten up, may have to sacrifice some power."

The World Today-- Communies Await Turn at Bat

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—NATO, EDC, Schuman Plan. All figure daily in the news. All involve the United States in one way or another. What do they mean? Here's an explanation.

On March 17, 1948, five European countries—Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands, Luxembourg—signed a pact, called the Brussels Treaty, to last 50 years. They promised to help one another in case of attack of any of them.

But here and abroad it was felt something stronger was needed to discourage the Russians from any warlike intentions. And three months later, June 11, 1948, the U. S. Senate approved a resolution offered by the late Sen. Vandenberg.

It told the President to go ahead, for the first time in American peacetime history, and make alliances with other countries. The result was the creation of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

NATO now has 14 members: United States, Canada, Iceland, Norway, Denmark, Great Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands, Luxembourg, Portugal, Italy, Greece, Turkey. The NATO agreement was signed April 4, 1949.

NATO members are pledged to help one another in case of attack on any of them. This was putting wheels within wheels since the five Brussels Treaty nations had now become part of NATO.

Under NATO each nation was to keep its own military forces independently. But they agreed to have one supreme commander. Right now it's American Gen. Matthew Ridgway.

Working with him is a staff of officers from the various NATO countries. Their job is to plan a defense based on the combined strength of all the members.

But, broad as NATO was, there was a big gap in it. It did not include Western Germany, a country whose military skill and manpower would be a powerful aid against any Russian march westward.

The French, overrun by Germany three times in a century, were worried at the thought of a new German army.

So the French opposed EDC (European Defense Community)—a single army for France, Belgium, The Netherlands, Luxembourg, Italy and West Germany.

This army would wear one uniform. It would be under a commander chosen from among themselves. Yet, it would be part of NATO. So here again was the idea of wheels within wheels.

Through such a single army made up of men from all six countries, the Germans could contribute to European defense and still not have a national army of their own.

The French proposal was made in September, 1950. Progress was slow. The U. S., which has urged European unity and likes EDC as a spearhead for NATO against Russian attack, pressed for speed.

Finally, the six equivocating EDC countries signed their agreement. But the single EDC army couldn't come into being until the six parliaments of all six countries approved. So far none has.

Why? Balking inside France and inside Germany, too. The reason: Politics, and ancient misgivings about one another.

(Note that Britain, which was able to keep its own armed forces independently when it joined the Brussels Treaty group and NATO, stayed out of EDC where it would have to merge them with other nations. Britain argues it can't put all its eggs in the European basket, that it has world-wide obligations.)

Secretary of State Dulles on his recent trip, prodded the six EDC countries to stop stalling, get down to cases and create the single army.

Yet, these six EDC countries which can't agree on merging their military forces have been able to do some very important merging on the economic side.

On May 9, 1950, French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman proposed that France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg pool their coal and steel resources.

The six signed the agreement April 18, 1951, and it was approved by their parliaments in June, 1952.

Briefly the plan does this: It creates a common market among all six nations for their coal and steel, knocks out tariffs between them on coal and steel, provides for a common tax. It's the biggest step toward economic unity in Europe's history.

It began to work Tuesday morning when 40 tons of coke moved across the German frontier into France, duty free.

Controls Die On Thousands Of Articles

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 (P)—The government today scrapped federal price controls over thousands of items including eggs, poultry, soap, gasoline, crude oil, newsprint and all rubber products.

The order, effective immediately, marks the Eisenhower administration's second big move within a week toward restoring the nation to a free-market economy.

Simultaneously, Price Stabilizer Joseph Freehill announced that dismissal notices will be handed out next Monday to about 2,000 employees of the Office of Price Stabilization (OPS), effective March 15.

Freehill said another package of decontrol orders may be expected within a few days.

With today's order, only about 17 per cent of the items going to make up the cost of living will remain under full control.

Freehill said the items newly freed from curbs account for about 15 per cent of the government's wholesale price index.

Major items still remaining under control include milk and dairy products such as butter and cheese; dry groceries, cigarettes, beer, major metals including copper, aluminum, steel and nickel; lumber, industrial machinery, farm equipment, and major household appliances such as refrigerators, home freezers and stoves.

OPS officials predicted some price hikes will result from today's order, notably on gasoline, crude oil and tires and tubes. They said prices on other items will probably not be affected since many of them are already selling below ceiling lids.

The agency had previously indicated that price curbs would be lifted from milk, but a last-minute decision kept it under control for the time being.

All controls expire April 30. Curbs on wages and salaries were lifted last Friday in the first big decontrol order that also swept aside ceilings on meat, clothing, furniture, restaurant meals and hundreds of household goods.

President Eisenhower so far has not asked for standby emergency powers to reimpose controls, for use in the event of any sudden inflationary trend.

However, at least one bill for standby reconstrual authority is now pending in Congress. It is sponsored by Sen. Capehart (R-Ind.).

New Storm Heads Toward Lowlands Of West Europe

LONDON, Feb. 12 (P)—Tens of thousands of troops and volunteers battled to reinforce the dikes of Britain, Holland and Belgium today as an approaching zero hour brought grave threat of new floods.

The three-nation alert to meet the ominous mounting of the season's highest tides coincided with violent blizzards which created havoc in four other countries—West Germany, France, Sweden and Denmark.

The blizzards, the worst in years, were in their fifth straight day in some places. England had its worst traffic dislocation in years. Only one main road remained open from Manchester northward to Scotland. Drifts, 12 feet deep in places, blocked the others.

Along the Dutch, British and Belgian North Sea coasts, devastated by floods and storms that took more than 2,000 lives 12 days ago, a new threat arose from the spring tides. These tides will hit their peak Sunday, Monday and Tuesday and if lashed by gales might break over weakened dikes.

General gale warnings were posted for the next 12 hours for the British East Coast.

If the calamity howlers continue to deplore the future business prospects in Sedalia, it should not come as a great surprise to them if attorneys suddenly announce they are doubling their fees for bankruptcy cases.

Those mournful wives who wish their bald-headed husbands could grow some thatch might be interested in knowing that even healthy, sane people can induce visions by gazing fixedly at a polished surface.

Just in case the chronic worriers are running out of material to disturb them, here's one: The chance of being killed by lightning in the United States is about one in 365,000.

13 Flee Fire In Freighter Off Yokohama

TOKYO, Friday, Feb. 13—(P)—A two-day-old fire, touched off by an explosion at sea, still burned today in the hold of the 7,933-ton U. S. freighter President Pierce but her nine American passengers and four stricken crewmen were safe on another ship.

The freighter anchored this morning off Yokohama and five fire tugs went to the scene to help the Pierce's crew battle flames which had blackened three of her holds.

The passengers, including seven women, were transferred at sea to the Military Sea Transport Barrett. So were two critically burned crewmen and two other suffering from pneumonia.

A still unexplained explosion shook the American President Lines freighter Thursday 100 miles southeast of Yokohama. Resultant fires destroyed the Pierce's signal facilities and compasses.

The Barrett and the Navy transport George Clymer conveyed the slightly listing freighter to Yokohama.

Capt. Frederick T. Willards, 64, of Lafayette, Calif., is master of the freighter.

Crewmen include: Chief Electrician Leman W. Harris, Wewoka, Okla.

Joseph C. Pucheu, oiler, Clayton, Okla.

Wayne H. Coad, fireman, Ironton, Mo.

Joseph E. Hoobler, fireman, Mount Valley, Kan.

Conversation Concerned Influence Selling

Sen. Tobey Keeps Recordings Of Phone Talks With Truman

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—(P)—Sen. Tobey (R-NH) said today he still retains—in a locked vault—recorded telephone conversations with former President Truman that caused a political flurry about two years ago.

"I've never played them back publicly," Tobey said in an interview. "But I'm saving them for posterity."

After it became known that Tobey had recorded some Truman telephone conversations, the late Joseph Short, then presidential press secretary, said Truman regarded such recordings as outrageous.

Tobey stoutly defended his actions, saying most senators and congressmen recorded all important telephone calls on which they wished to get facts accurately.

"Later they did install a beeping sound on my recorder," Tobey said.

At the time, regulations of the Federal Communications Commission required, as they do now, a signal sound every 15 seconds to indicate that a recorder was being used.

Tobey said he later met and talked with Truman several times but the telephone recording was not mentioned.

The incident was an outgrowth of a sensation-producing Senate investigation of influence peddling

Odd Appetite Kills Ostrich In England

CHESTER, Eng., Feb. 12—(P)—Ozzie, the Chester Zoo ostrich, died today from effects of swallowing the padlock to her cage.

The padlock was located by a mine detector borrowed from the Army and an operation was performed to remove it from the ostrich's stomach.

Ozzie was reported doing okay last night but suffered a relapse.

Blast Kills 12 Workmen In California

RICHMOND, Calif., Feb. 12—(P)—Twelve men were killed today when a thundering explosion heard and felt 20 miles away ripped apart a dynamite-mixing building of the Hercules Powder Plant at nearby Pinole. Five men were injured.

The Contra Costa County coroner's office announced the death toll, which had mounted from an estimated eight immediately after the blast. Assistant Plant Superintendent C. E. Prechter said 10 bodies and fragments indicating two other victims were recovered.

Mangled bits of human flesh were strewn 200 yards by the explosion. The 25 by 30 foot brick building was demolished.

The shattering blast was distinctly felt in San Francisco, 20 airline miles away, and even jiggled the University of California seismograph at Berkeley, 12 miles to the South. A huge column of white smoke shot high in the air.

Cause of the explosion, which followed a fire in the "dope house," was officially listed as unknown. Federal Bureau of Investigation agents were summoned to examine the debris.

Only one of the dead was immediately identified. Company officials said the other names would not be released until a check of some 400 employees is completed.

Only two men worked in the building, where liquid ingredients of dynamite were mixed. But there were 25 in the immediate vicinity, in other structures or working on a nearby construction project.

Eyewitnesses said a puff of smoke and a small finger of flame leaped from the building eight minutes before the blast.

The plant fire whistle, apparently touched off by the two men inside, began blowing and many workers rushed toward the building to help fight the fire.

One employee, who declined to give his name, said the "dope houses" were considered relatively safe from explosion. He added that three had burned in the past four years without exploding.

104 Employees Lose-Out As 4 OPS Shops Close

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 12 (P)—Approximately 104 employees will be laid off by the closing of price stabilization district offices at St. Louis, Wichita, Omaha and Des Moines.

"Thirty-day notices for district employees will be given them by Monday," said M. A. Brooks, regional director. "They will enable us to close district offices by March 19. Any functions of the agency which arise after that will be handled by the regional OPS office in Kansas City."

Brooks said the regional office staff here will be reduced to around 65 for final operations.

Middle East Presents Mixed News Outlook

British Boost West's Case With Moslems

CAIRO, Egypt, Feb. 12 (P)—Egypt and Britain formally agreed today to let the Sudanese choose their own future and Premier Gen. Mohammed Naguib announced the door was open wide for "a successful understanding" on the withdrawal of British troops from the Suez Canal zone.

Talks on Suez are coming very soon, Naguib said.

The final settlement of these two key problems in British-Egyptian relations could clear the way toward tighter co-operation between this strategic Moslem nation and the Western Powers in the cold war, perhaps in a Middle East defense command.

There was exultation in the foreign offices of Cairo, London and Washington. And a public holiday was called for tomorrow in the Sudan, a land of desert, forests and cotton fields that stretches from Central Africa to the Red Sea. A ceremonial parade of celebration is to be held before Gov. Gen. Sir Robert Howe Saturday in Khartoum, the capital.

Eden Likes Settlement

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, in announcing the Sudanese accord in Britain's House of Commons, said it was a reasonable settlement of this question which has long bedeviled our relations with Egypt.

Press Officer Michael J. McDermott of the U. S. State Department said in Washington the United States is highly gratified. He termed this "an event of great importance, representing as it does agreement on an issue which has been the cause of great complications in relations between the two countries for several decades."

Here in Cairo, U. S. Ambassador Jefferson Caffery drew praise from Naguib for his mediation efforts.

"It was through Ambassador Caffery's good offices," the Premier said, "that many difficult problems were ironed out. These had a direct effect on the successful conclusion of this agreement."

Naguib, the strong man who seized control of Egypt's government seven months ago, and Ambassador Sir Ralph Stevenson, a British career diplomat, took up together today the issues that have been a source of bickering and occasional bloodshed for years.

They quickly signed a compromise agreement to substitute home rule for the sovereignty the two nations have shared for 54 years over the Sudan and to give the eight million people of that territory on the Upper Nile the right to choose independence, union with Egypt or a partnership in the British Commonwealth before the end of 1955.

The agreement provides for three main stages:

1. Country-wide elections are to be held within the next two months for a Sudanese parliament. These elections will be supervised by an international commission made up of an Indian, an American, a Briton and two Sudanese.

2. A Sudanese government will be formed, and under international supervision will prepare for the assumption of full power.

3. Within three years, the Sudanese people will make their fateful choice for independence or an alliance.

Security Director Harold Stassen, returned Monday from conferences with European leaders in seven countries.

Dulles had cautioned earlier that unless the European Allies act soon, the U. S. might have to review its whole program of aid, which comes up soon for renewal in the new Republican-dominated Congress.

His new plea for quick action was in a 15-minute airdre s prepared for delivery over major television and radio networks. The secretary said at the outset that the reason why the trip was made immediately after the inauguration at the direction of President Eisenhower was that European unity is of tremendous importance to the United States and to the whole North Atlantic Alliance.

"We have not been trying to impress an American scheme on Europe, but to support the plans of the European leaders themselves," Dulles said.

The EDC Treaty was born on the continent as was the Schuman Plan pooling coal and iron resources of Germany, France and adjacent states, he noted.

Dulles said he and Stassen returned with the conclusion that the EDC Treaty was "not dead, but only sleeping."

"We did not get any concrete promises or pledges from our European friends—and we did not give any. We did come back with the feeling there is a good chance that the European defense community will be brought into being."

Our Army Will Fire Many German Employees

HEIDELBERG, Germany, Feb. 12 (P)—Twenty-seven per cent of the German civilians working for the U. S. Army will be released by next June, the Army said today.

The number to be dropped in a gradual operation during the next four months has not been determined. The cut is subject to possible further action by the U. S. Congress on the Army budget, the announcement said.

Allies Face New Threat From Russia

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—(P)—By its diplomatic break with Israel Russia has put itself in position to make possible serious trouble for the United States and Allied countries in the strategic Middle East.

Diplomatic officials agreed today that while this was not necessarily the motivation of the break it was unquestionably a result which could cause Washington, London, Paris and other Allied capitals a lot of headaches in the future.

What is feared is that the Soviets will now undertake to upset the uneasy balance between Arabs and Jews in the Middle East, the maintenance of which has been a basic aim of American and British policies, and throw their strength on the Arab side.

As experts here see the situation Communism will not have any strong appeal to Arab peoples of any class. It never has had such appeal in the past. Arabs are dominated by religious feelings and ideas whereas Communism is essentially anti-religious.

Nevertheless the Arabs may be strongly attracted by the prospect of obtaining powerful support from the Soviets unless they remember that those whom the Kremlin supports it often consumes.

The Russian break with Israel conceivably could offset somewhat the advantages to be derived by the West from the new agreement between Britain and Egypt on the future of the Sudan. The Sudan dispute has been a sore point; its settlement may well pave the way for agreement on the further Anglo-Egyptian issue of defense of the Suez Canal.

The improvement in British-Egyptian relations shown by the Sudan agreement was enthusiastically welcomed by the State Department. Officials privately regarded it as advancing the prospects for working out new defense arrangements between the Western Powers and the Arab states in the Middle East.

The new policy being developed by the Soviet Union toward that part of the world, however, injected a large element of uncertainty as to how events actually will turn out.

British Ship Reports Attack Near Foochow

HONG KONG, Friday, Feb. 13 (P)—The British freighter Incharan radioed Thursday that she was fired on near the Red China port of Foochow by junks but that she was not damaged.

Whether the junks were manned by Chinese Reds or Nationalists was not immediately determined.

Dulles Warns Europe To Unite Or Risk Peril Beyond US Aid

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—(P)—Secretary of State Dulles said tonight Western European nations must move promptly toward unity or risk peril beyond American power to save them.

In a radio-TV report to the American people on his recent survey trip to the continent, Dulles expressed hope that the next few weeks will bring "concrete evidence" of progress toward approving the six-nation European Defense Community Treaty. This calls for a common army for defense against Russia.

Failure to unite, Dulles said in his prepared text, "has so weakened the Western European countries that today not one of them could offer strong resistance to the Red Army."

"Nothing that the United States can do will ever be enough to make Europe safe if it is divided into rival national camps," he said.

His 10-day survey trip, Dulles said, convinced him that the treaty has a "good chance" to come into being, even though many hurdles remain.

"We believe that there is a will to proceed," he said.

Dulles did not go so far as he has done previously in hinting that American aid to Europe might be curtailed if unity efforts continue to lag.

But he did say that without concrete evidence of real progress "future planning will be difficult."

"Candor requires us to say this," he remarked.

Jews Expect All Red Bloc To Cut Ties

TEL AVIV, Israel, Feb. 12—(P)—Israel is close to the Foreign Office assumed today that all Communist bloc countries in Eastern Europe, with the possible exception of Bulgaria, will quickly follow Moscow's lead in breaking diplomatic relations with this infant Middle East nation.

Western diplomats speculated that the rupture was part of a growing two-year campaign of Soviet hostility in an effort to win Arab friendship.

There were hints from Moscow that it was part of a buildup for an internal campaign against "Zionists" that may come to a head soon in a trial of nine doctors accused of killing two Soviet leaders and plotting to do away with many others.

Officially, Moscow gave as a reason for the break the bombing of the Soviet legation here Monday in which the wife of Soviet Minister Pavel I. Yershov and two legation employees were injured.

But the tenor of unofficial comment here was that this was only the most superficial reason.

Bombing May Be An Excuse Many Israeli citizens—without the least evidence—ever commented that the bombing may have been the work of Soviet provocateurs to provide an excuse for the rupture.

An Israeli Foreign Office spokesman, in the first official reaction tonight said "the formal motivation of this step was a more pretext," and the real purpose was to intimidate Soviet Jews.

"The decision was in effect the culmination of a campaign of violent slander and outspoken hostility against Israel, the Zionist movement, Jewish organizations, and Jews as such, which has been conducted within the Soviet bloc for a long time past, and has within the last few months been ominously gaining momentum," he said.

"The true purpose is the utter desolation and intimidation of Soviet Jewry, for whose fate grave anxiety is felt."

Some unofficial circles expressed satisfaction that the incident would definitely place Israel in the camp of Western democratic nations and make her deserving of more economic help and arms to strengthen her position in hostile Arab world. Some believed that opposition to the numerically small Communist party here would now be more pronounced.

Reds Ask For Troops In line with Moscow's charge that Israeli police connived in the bombing, Soviet Minister Yershov today asked that the legation's police guard be replaced by troops.

The legation's staff of 50 was busily packing. The eight adults and one child at the Israeli legation in Moscow were reported doing the same. Presumably arrangements will be made for a simultaneous departure.

Russia's sudden and dramatic diplomatic blow led Premier David Ben-Gurion to confer here with Cabinet members.

The only immediate practical consequence was the cancellation of sailing orders for the small Israeli ship Kinereth, which was to have left Haifa today with 5,000 boxes of oranges for Odessa, Russia.

Israeli Police Guard US, British Consulates

JERUSALEM, Feb. 12—(P)—Israeli police armed with Sten guns guarded the American, British, Polish and Czechoslovak consulate offices here tonight. The offices of the "Soviet Scientific Mission" in the Russian compound also were patrolled by constables.

The guards were "posted" this evening on instructions from police headquarters.

The British and American consulates were patrolled as a precaution against any possible counteraction by local Communists.

In addition, American Marines do continuous sentry duty at the U. S. consulate here.

One Motorist Shoots Another In St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 12—(P)—Donald Gentry, 20, a St. Louis boiler-maker, was shot and seriously wounded today by another motorist who forced his car to the curb in south St. Louis.

Gentry told police he got out of his car and jerked open the door of the other machine, demanding "what's all about?" The driver said nothing and opened fire with a revolver, Gentry said, then drove off.

Gentry was shot in the abdomen and right hand.

Detective-Sgt. Edward Kelly said Gentry has served reformatory terms for burglary and larceny.

Boy Scout Week Stresses--

Scouting Is a Family Affair

The 43rd anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America is being observed this week with a theme, "Scouting Is a Family Affair." Pictured here are four families which are typical of many in Sedalia where the whole family has gone into Scouting. It has been families like these that have made Scouting work—and have made it available to other boys. The Scout Family stress this year is part of a three-year program of the scouting movement which has been heralded as "Forward on Liberty's Team." The family, naturally, is the basis and foundation of all the rights and privileges which make freedom and liberty possible.

Many Local Scouts May Attend Scout Week Jamboree This Year Out West Activities

A number of Sedalia Boy Scouts still have the opportunity of attending the third National Boy Scout Jamboree which will be held this summer on the shores of the Pacific Ocean in California.

Two troops, a total of 70 boys may go from the Lake of the Ozarks Council and to date only 15 have signed up. This leaves 55 vacancies to be filled before the deadline of March 2.

The reservation fee is $25 and the total fee for the trip is $275, which includes transportation, meals for about three weeks, Jamboree fee, sightseeing tours along the way, adult leadership and emergency fund.

Members of the local Jamboree committee are: Capt. K. K. Johnson, chairman; Louise Heuerman, equipment; Wayne Elisea, publicity. The tentative route for the local group has been set up as follows: Sedalia to Kansas City to Denver, for a one-day stop, San Francisco for one day, Santa Ann and Jamboree site for one day in Los Angeles and one day at Catalina Island. Returning the group will stop one-half day in Salt Lake City.

Local leaders who will make the trip will be announced during Scout Week. Information on the trip, from national Boy Scout headquarters, reports:

Thrill of Lifetime
A "once-in-a-lifetime" experience will be enjoyed next summer by 50,000 Boy Scouts, Explorers and Scout leaders who trek "On to the Pacific" for America's third National Boy Scout Jamboree.

A huge tent city will rise on the 300-acre site loaned to the Boy Scouts by the owners of Irvine Ranch in Orange County, Calif., at the Newport Harbor area in California, on the shores of the Pacific. The youngest, newest and busiest city of 50,000 will team with excitement. Boys from all walks of life, of all races and creeds will live together, exchanging skills, swapping home-town products and learning about the customs and traditions of many sections of the nation.

Foreign Boys Invited
The National Jamboree will also have an international flavor. Living with American boys through out the camp will be Scouts of other lands invited to represent their nations' Scouting organizations. There are now fifty other nations around the world with Scouting programs.

There will be pageants and ceremonies, campfires and music, demonstrations of all types of campcraft and Scoutcraft swapping, home-town products and the opportunity of making some of America's outstanding citizens. And while the tent city will disappear almost as suddenly as it appeared a week or ten days before, the impressions, friendships and memories will long remain.

A Top Experience

Scout Requirements Changed--

Merit Badge Counselors Listed for Pettis District

Several years ago a study was made in the advancement program of the Boy Scouts of America. It was found that although the basic requirements were fundamental to boy interest, many times the steps in advancement became a series of tests rather than a natural desire on behalf of the boy to create interest in outdoor skills, leadership ability and spiritual activities.

With this in mind the tenderfoot, second class and first class advancement procedures were revised and divided into three phases: (1) Scout Spirit, (2) Scout Participation, (3) Scoutcraft Skills.

Within these steps a Scout was to live by the principles set forth in the scout oath and law serve in leadership capacities, and learn outdoor skills. Today, the steps are related so naturally, that the second class rank is now a "top" rank as the "scout" camper.

As of Jan. 1, the star, life, and eagle scout ranks have been revised and become effective. These three advanced steps now fall into the same basic pattern as the first three, namely: Scout Spirit, Scout Participation, and Scoutcraft and Life Interests.

In the merit badge program to attain the eagle rank a new emphasis has been placed on citizenship training. Four merit badges are now available in this group, three which must be attained for the eagle rank. The Boy Scouts of America is now encouraging the to attend and bring their parents. Four Scouts will receive the Eagle Scout Award: Larry Owen, Troop 32; Wiam Sutton, Troop 54; Ronnie Dirck, Troop 34; Charles Brady, Post 54.

THURSDAY, FEB. 12: EAGLE SCOUT DAY: Scouts and Explorers who received the Eagle Scout Award during 1952 will be the guests of several Sedalia Scouters during the afternoon. Each Eagle will spend some time with an adult Scouter who is now working at a profession or has a hobby of similar interest to the Eagle Scout.

A banquet will be held at the Bothwell Hotel at 6:00 honoring the Scouts. Larry Jones, Jefferson City will be the guest speaker.

EXPLORER - GIRL SCOUT DANCE: A semi-formal dance to carry out the Valentine theme will be held from 9:00 to 12:00 at the Elk's Club for the Senior Girl Scouts and Explorers and their dates. Music will be by Tommy Adams' orchestra.

MONDAY, FEB. 9: PARENT TROOP BANQUET: Troop 52, First Baptist Church.

TUESDAY, FEB. 10: DISTRICT COURT OF HONOR: First Baptist Church at 7:30 p. m. All Scouts due to receive awards are urged to attend. It was through the latter that Mrs. A. R. Beach first became known as "Mom Beach." In 1937 and 1938, she was teaching music at Smith-Cotton. At the senior council banquet in 1937 the president of the Student Council introduced her as "Mrs. A. R. Beach, who had the high school knows as 'Mom.' From everywhere come letters and cards from these young people who have scattered all over the world to remind her that they still remember her smile, her voice, and the many things she did for them.

It was while she was at the USO that she took Sedalia girls to the base for the chapel choir which she directed. There was never a dull moment in those days. Going out in army trucks it was quite common to get stuck in the mud and if that didn't happen something else did. Christmas Eve of 1942, the chaplain was so anxious to have an extra special service that he volunteered to see that one of the girls, who lived eight miles south of town, was safely returned to her home, but it didn't turn out that the journey was so safe after all. As they were riding on the highway south of town a carload of drunks drove onto the highway from a night club, ran into the army truck, knocked the back wheels off and sent the truck down an embankment. The only good part about it was that the injuries were only minor.

Mrs. Beach was born in Sedalia, she was Maybelle Calvert, and her first interest in music started in the old Sedalia School of Music, located then over where the Singer Sewing Machine Co. and Deck Appliance Store are now. Teachers of fine standing and European training held forth. Maybelle was eight years old and she has fond memories now of two teachers, Miss Harriett Gold and Miss V. Jones, who taught kindergarten music. She learned all of her early technique on the table key boards with queer gadgets for notes. "I learned to love music then," she said, "Because I loved Miss Harriett so much."

Later, it seemed she almost hated music because of the German professor with the big brow and little patience who would hit her fingers with a pencil. Then came indifferent teachers and Maybelle seemed to slip into very haphazard ways—but all this time she laboriously practiced two hours a day when her mother could keep her from needing to get a drink or do anything that would shave off a little of the practice time.

When she was 13 her parents bought her first piano and Miss Florence Lamy took her over, or as Maybelle expresses it, worked her over. For it was through her that she learned the value of time. Miss Lamy let her sing in the choir of the First Baptist Church, too, and it was the experience with the choir in the next few years that gave her her first interest in singing and directing.

She's 'Mom Beach' to Hundreds Who Enjoy Music Due to Her Work

By Hazel Lang

"Mom Beach," as she is lovingly called by so many youngsters is a home town product. She hasn't been out of the state too far nor too many times, but her memory has traveled far in the hearts of the boys stationed at the air base during World War II, and their young wives. In the hearts, too, of those who have been her pupils and have gone away to other places to live their lives.

It was through the latter that Mrs. A. R. Beach first became known as "Mom Beach." In 1937 and 1938, she was teaching music at Smith-Cotton. At the senior council banquet in 1937 the president of the Student Council introduced her as "Mrs. A. R. Beach, who had the high school knows as 'Mom.' From everywhere come letters and cards from these young people who have scattered all over the world to remind her that they still remember her smile, her voice, and the many things she did for them.

It was while she was at the USO that she took Sedalia girls to the base for the chapel choir which she directed. There was never a dull moment in those days. Going out in army trucks it was quite common to get stuck in the mud and if that didn't happen something else did. Christmas Eve of 1942, the chaplain was so anxious to have an extra special service that he volunteered to see that one of the girls, who lived eight miles south of town, was safely returned to her home, but it didn't turn out that the journey was so safe after all. As they were riding on the highway south of town a carload of drunks drove onto the highway from a night club, ran into the army truck, knocked the back wheels off and sent the truck down an embankment. The only good part about it was that the injuries were only minor.

Mrs. Beach was born in Sedalia, she was Maybelle Calvert, and her first interest in music started in the old Sedalia School of Music, located then over where the Singer Sewing Machine Co. and Deck Appliance Store are now. Teachers of fine standing and European training held forth. Maybelle was eight years old and she has fond memories now of two teachers, Miss Harriett Gold and Miss V. Jones, who taught kindergarten music. She learned all of her early technique on the table key boards with queer gadgets for notes. "I learned to love music then," she said, "Because I loved Miss Harriett so much."

Later, it seemed she almost hated music because of the German professor with the big brow and little patience who would hit her fingers with a pencil. Then came indifferent teachers and Maybelle seemed to slip into very haphazard ways—but all this time she laboriously practiced two hours a day when her mother could keep her from needing to get a drink or do anything that would shave off a little of the practice time.

When she was 13 her parents bought her first piano and Miss Florence Lamy took her over, or as Maybelle expresses it, worked her over. For it was through her that she learned the value of time. Miss Lamy let her sing in the choir of the First Baptist Church, too, and it was the experience with the choir in the next few years that gave her her first interest in singing and directing.

Mrs. A. R. Beach

Her cats and her neighborhood playmates were the first suffering victims, but that was the way she started.

Miss Florence left a great impression of a sense of duty and beauty of church music with her. Miss Florence was the organist when Prof. Glenn Woods had the choir, and that choir under his direction was always a beacon of light to Maybelle.

In her junior and senior years at high school Miss Annabel Ernst, now Mrs. E. A. Duensing of Jefferson City, was her ideal. She was her piano teacher and also choir director—on top of that she was a pattern for Maybelle's girlish dreams.

The illness of her mother kept Maybelle from college for two years after she was graduated from high school and so she continued her music. She was one of Sedalia's many aspiring young singers whose ambition was fanned to white heat by Mrs. W. D. Steele's enthusiasm. And it was through her training and the leadership of the Rev. J. B. Fuller, Mrs. Beach says, that she was led to continue her musical education.

Her ambition was dampened during her first semester at Stephens College when Dean Gauntlett told her she couldn't go by instinct, she had to know what and why she did so. That was followed by a hectic year under two teachers, one who wouldn't let her sing below F and the other who wouldn't let her sing more than two notes above F. She was really discouraged when she faced the third semester under a new teacher recently graduated. But after two years work with Miss Agnes Husband she fulfilled Mr. D. Steele's subscription as to what was good for her and went out to teach music in high school in North Missouri.

It was in 1919 that she was married to Mr. Beach and she filled in between her housewife duties the voice lessons from Mrs. E. F. Yancey and in teaching high club in Martha Letts High School.

In 1935 she had a yearning to study voice again and began a nine year program at Stephens College under Ernest L. Cox, who is still head of the voice department at the college. There were very few Saturdays of the school term that she failed to show up at the studio with three of her students for an analytical lesson. At 169 miles per trip that stretched into a lot of miles between the years of 1935 and 1944, but Mrs. Beach thought it was worth it because it was a wonderful experience for the number of pupils who came under the influence of the school and the fine instruction of Mr. Cox.

Well, to three fine children, Mrs. Beach was not "Mom Beach"—she was just "Mom." Mr. and Mrs. Beach are the parents of one son, Elynn, and two blond daughters, Evelyn and Evelyn. All three have lovely voices and have had much pleasure from the association of her music class and the opportunities which came to them. Roswell belongs to the Portland symphonic choir of Portland, Ore., and enjoys his music tremendously. Elynn and Evelyn have been a matter of pride to their mother and dad and they feel that their talents will be transmitted to the grandchildren who are just now becoming music conscious.

And so she goes on directing and singing in the choir, for various programs, for shut-ins, in the home, listening with pride to her children as they sing and she, so often at the piano, accompanies them, training the young voices of other people's children and hoping that her grandchildren, too, will love to sing.

Capacity Crowd Here Friday Nite

There was no longer even standing room, and the crowds were still coming Friday night at Smith-Cotton High School Auditorium, when it was decided to have a second showing, at 9:15 p.m., of "Mr. Texas," the Christian western movie featuring Billy Graham and his evangelistic team.

It was estimated that more than 1,500 persons saw the movie which was brought to Sedalia under the sponsorship of the Baptist Men's Brotherhood of Pettis County. Willis Chaney, Baptist missionary for Harmony Association, presided, and Carl Yessen led the singing while the Rev. William Morgan played the piano. The invocation was by the Rev. H. L. Chaney.

"Mr. Texas" depicted the lives of a Texas rancher and his sister and showed how both were led to find Christ through the preaching of Billy Graham.

All the members of the Billy Graham evangelistic team, which work together in meetings in cities all over America, were seen in the film. Bev Shea sang several numbers, Cliff Barrow, who is the master of ceremonies and director of the Hour of Decision choir, visited the sister at the hospital and talked with "Mr. Texas." Grady Wilson spoke to a group of persons who had made decisions during the conference period which followed the service.

New Waterway Opens On Mississippi River

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 7 (AP)—Two 450-ton gates swung open today and three tugboats and their barges passed through the first lockage of the 40-million-dollar Chain of Rocks canal on the Mississippi River. An informal ceremony, witnessed by an estimated 200 persons, marked the opening of the eight-mile waterway that runs on the Illinois side of the Mississippi, by passing a treacherous stretch of the river just north of St. Louis. A formal ceremony dedicating the navigation aid, which was started in 1946, has been scheduled tentatively for May 9.

National Scout Official Here, Outlines the Explorer Program

N. Harold West, national director of Explorer services, Boy Scouts of America, informed 65 Scouters from the Lake of the Ozarks Council on activities of the Explorer program.

"When a young man comes into Exploring at age fourteen," West related, "a father has only four years more to know his son. In four years he will be in college, on a job of his own, or in the armed forces. In America we have a program that helps get boys in their right places with their fathers."

"We have found that young men want to know and have a part in the life about them... so we must develop a program that young men can voice their opinion on what they want to do, on the other hand, they must have guidance and training in the methods and procedures in attaining those activities they wish to do."

West outlined the procedures involved in program planning for the Explorer Post or Crew over a three-month period and explained that successful Explorer groups in America today were planning now for high adventure experiences for three to four years in advance. The Explorer Advisor acts in the capacity of the coach. He may plan details, give program suggestions and promote activities to the young men serving as elected leaders of the Explorer unit, but the final decisions, and the advisor's success depends upon how well he has trained the leadership team.

Exploring today is divided into four phases, Outdoor, Service, Social and Vocational. The program of Exploring lies in the events and in the planning of those events, involved within the field of these four phases.

He outlined the program of recognition in the Explorer program and what is involved in the process of attaining the "Silver Award," the Explorer equivalent to the "Eagle Scout." The recognition program involves the same basic elements, Social, Service, Outdoor and Vocational.

"In Scouting, the program is based on advancement. In Exploring the recognition of awards is NOT the program. The skills of Exploring are not basically those done by the hands, rather the skills of Exploring involve the committee planning, use of agencies, leadership in committee ac-

Just Around Home

By Mrs. Roy L. Bowers
Garden Club No. 5

Always—the best part of a trip is getting home. It's nice to go, but still slier to get back home. Home looks so good! I can scarcely think of anything worse than to have no place to call home.

It was a real treat to tag along with my husband when he went to a meeting in Dallas. It was the first time we had had a chance for more than a passing look at Dallas. We liked the city. It certainly shows signs of growth and prosperity. But as I said, I just "tagged" along, so I only attended the meeting about half of the time.

The rest of the time I was a real "lady of leisure." It was a thrilling change. I could see Dallas, or I could relax in the hotel room and read for an entire afternoon without even the telephone ringing. I certainly wouldn't want that kind of a life for long though. Then we thoroughly enjoyed the trip home via Shreveport and up highway 71.

I feel rather impatient now for spring to come since seeing the early spring flowers and shrubs in full bloom in the south.

The greatest thrill of all the trip, though, was in store for me at Springdale, Arkansas, and I really don't think my husband was bored too much. We stopped at Mrs. Hartenbayer's Violet Treasure House. The name is well chosen.

It really is a treasure house of violets. It has become for her a booming business instead of a hobby. She has a fairly small green house at the back of her home. It is literally filled with thousands of violets, from all the old familiar ones to the very latest ones out. She ships violets everywhere, including Hawaii, Canada, and Alaska. Her best business is in Oregon and California. I found out in a little while that I didn't know anything about growing African Violets. At least, according to her technique, I have been doing about everything wrong.

Her violets prove that her technique must be right. In the first place, I hadn't used the right plant food. She is convinced there is nothing that equals Plant Marvel for supplying plant food to the violets. She advocates using it once a week for the fancier varieties, and every other week for the harder ones. She is also sold on the idea that watering from the top is best. With her experience, the dark and shiny leaves need less water than do the light green leaves.

I had in mind to buy one new violet when I went in, but I came out with seven. The temptation was too great. I did only buy one plant. It is the new "Holly" by Keller. It is so different and beautiful. Then I got five new cuttings. From one of them I have already potted four lovely plants. The others are not large enough to separate and pot my baby plants. Growing violets is certainly teaching me a much needed lesson—"be patient." One can't hurry them. The seventh one I got was a little rooter sucker that the owner gave to me.

She also gave me (she's a Methodist) a sack of her potting soil. She thinks her's is the perfect soil. Her formula is: two parts wood shavings, one part peat moss, one part screened old well-rotted cow manure; one part sharp sand. To one bushel of the above mixture add one heaping pint bone meal, and three heaping pints crushed charcoal. Of course, the soil and sand to be well sterilized. She advocated steaming instead of baking. She suggests setting a container with some boiled water in it, and some jars containing off the bottom. Bury a potato in the middle of the soil and let the water boil until the potato is done. By the way, the soil should be damp to begin with and should not be used for twenty four hours. The sand can be baked dry in the oven as it contains no humus to be destroyed.

Raising violets is truly an interesting and worthwhile hobby. In fact, I am wondering if it doesn't become an obsession.

World Music Program Set For Music Club

"The Whole World is Singing" will be presented Wednesday afternoon at the Helen G. Steele Music Club. The program of international music, representing the music of 16 countries, is under the co-chairmanship of Mrs. Ernest Liebel and Mrs. George Lovercamp.

The department of international music relations of the Federation of Music Clubs believe that better international relations can be brought about through an understanding of the folk music of other countries. It is through the common people of the world that mutual respect must come. All people are subject to the same joys and sorrows, the same hopes and aspirations, regardless of their color or their national government.

The Rev. and Mrs. W. J. Cox were hosts to WSCS of Houston Methodist Church Jan. 21.

Following the covered dish luncheon the program was presented by Mrs. Jack Morris as leader. Mrs. Earl Gregory presided at the business session in the afternoon. Mrs. Jack Morris and Mrs. Earl Gregory will represent the church and assist the committees for the other churches of Houston in preparing for the World Day of Prayer program which will be held Feb. 20 at the Baptist Church.

Mrs. Clinton Lowrey joined the club.

Notes from Public Library--

Newest of Abe's Biographies Added to Library's Collection

The newest biography of the Great Emancipator has been added to the Public Library's extensive collection of material about one of our greatest presidents. "Abraham Lincoln" by Benjamin P. Thomas, has rightly been termed a publishing event of the first magnitude, and will doubtless become the standard one-volume life of Lincoln for a generation to come. "Thomas's Lincoln" will soon become as familiar a phrase in literate households as "Charnwood's Lincoln" was in our parents' time.

Thomas's book is a biography for laymen and experts alike and will stand as a work of art as well as an accurate biography incorporating the fruits of modern research. It is a beautifully written, continuously absorbing and will prove a delight to anyone who has ever meant to read the life of Lincoln for it is now possible to do so with all the pleasure attendant upon reading a first class work of fiction. Four handsome maps are included in the book and 29 unusual and exceptionally interesting contemporary photographs.

A fine two-volume work on the period of history that made Lincoln great is also available at the library. Volume I is called "Ordeal of the Union," and Volume II, "The Emergence of Lincoln." The books are by Allan Nevins. Emil Ludwig's "Lincoln," sustains Ludwig's reputation as one of our foremost biographers of famous people. His book makes no effort to cover the period of history of the Civil War, but only to paint a picture of Abraham Lincoln, and his personal sympathy for the man whose career was so full of dramatic destiny that illumines his words.

Other two-volume biographies of the martyred president whose birthday is February 12th are "Abraham Lincoln," by Albert J. Beveridge and "Abraham Lincoln" by Carl Sandburg.

Among the fiction at the library, which was inspired by the life of Lincoln, is "The Seal of Ann Rutledge," by Bernie Babcock; "Lincoln's Other Mary," by Olive Carter; a fictional relating of Lincoln's second affair of the heart, with Mary Owens; and "The Perfect Tribute," a classic short story about the Gettysburg address. Two of the most famous plays dealing with Lincoln's life are also available: "Abe Lincoln" and "Abraham Lincoln," by Robert Sherwood, in which Raymond Massey played the title role.

C. of C. Better Business Bureau Plans Clamp on Local Solicitors

The broad policy of the better business division of the Chamber of Commerce, of which Leon Archias is director and Philip McLaughlin is chairman, is to protect the public and the merchants of Sedalia from unethical and false promotions and advertising schemes.

More than $1,000 is taken out of Sedalia in this manner each month, said Mr. McLaughlin, and the keeping of that money in Sedalia would equal a payroll of that amount.

The committee has worked out a plan it believes will be great benefit to the merchants and is now at work on a plan for the protection of the housewives.

The Chamber of Commerce has the time and facilities to check on any solicitors who come to town. If they cannot produce a Chamber of Commerce card you need only to tell them you are not interested. This in no way interferes with you buying anything you want from anybody, but it tells you that it does not have the Chamber of Commerce approval. Through the Better Business Bureau the Chamber of Commerce can check on anyone very quickly.

Every solicitor is asked to fill out an application for solicitation approval at the Chamber of Commerce office. This application asks for the name, address and telephone number of the organization soliciting, the local sponsoring group, names of solicitors, method of soliciting, fully explained, the amount or percentage of proceeds going to sponsoring group. In cases of publications, name and address of printer, credentials and the name and address of the one filling out the application are required. This gives the Chamber of Commerce a record of all solicitors and this information is put on the card.

A dark blue plaque with gold lettering has been mailed to all solicitors of business and office in Sedalia, whether they are members of the Chamber of Commerce or not.

These plaques may be hung in the most conspicuous place in the store or office where the merchant or professional man may point to it if a solicitor cannot produce a Chamber of Commerce card of approval. A letter of explanation from Claude Boul, president of the C. of C., accompanied the plaque. A sample card was also sent, and each card must bear the Chamber of Commerce seal.

Every applicant for soliciting is thoroughly investigated before given the card. This will also prevent competition of outsiders with business men who put their dollars right back in Sedalia.

The peddlers who bother housewives, some of whom are not even courteous, will also be checked.

If the office force of the Chamber of Commerce feels it cannot pass judgment on a solicitor, then a secret committee is called in, the qualifications considered and the decision is made by the committee.

The majority of solicitors are honest. This is their chosen way to make a living. But once in a while there are solicitors who are not all right. Within the past few weeks there have been more than a dozen solicitors checked on by the Chamber of Commerce and

Browns of Sedalia Make Part For World's Largest Truck

Sedalia usually manages to get into the picture on almost anything that happens one way or another even when it comes to making the big hydraulic cylinder for the largest truck in the world.

The truck is nearing completion at the Dart Truck Company plant in Kansas City. The picture of it, with an article describing it, appeared in the Feb. 5 issue of the Kansas City Star. The truck, according to the article, was designed and assembled at the Kansas City plant and the engine and several parts were purchased from other companies.

Well, it seems as though when they got to the hydraulic cylinder in the final assembling they had trouble getting the casting of chrome vanadium steel. It was a very intricate and difficult job and they couldn't find a shop that could cast it or one to machine the casting. According to Roy Brown, the Brown brothers at the Brown Machine Shop, Second and Montauk, volunteered to help out in an effort to get the truck completed. They cast the big hydraulic cylinder, making it on a horizontal boring mill.

Brown's finished the job about the first of the year. This is a new type of hydraulic cylinder and when tried out should prove very efficient, using the new type hydraulic o-seal rings.

And so the new big truck is almost ready to be delivered to the Bagdad Copper Corporation, Bagdad, Ariz., for use in transporting ore.

It will handle a dumping load of 60 tons. It weighs 95,000 pounds when empty and 240,000 pounds when loaded. The 350-horsepower Diesel engines power the truck and are located at the sides behind the cab. Each drives one of the two rear axles.

In spite of the size, the truck is as easily steered as the average motor car since it is equipped with a hydraulic steering mechanism. The truck is equipped with 12 tires, each five feet tall, which are arranged in pairs on all three of the axles. The truck is 32 feet long and 11 feet wide.

Ike Leads US In Its Tribute To Abe Lincoln

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—President Eisenhower led the nation today in paying tribute to the memory of Abraham Lincoln on this 144th anniversary of the great Civil War leader's birth.

With Mrs. Eisenhower at his side, the President attended traditional ceremonies at the white marble Lincoln Memorial on the banks of the Potomac River.

On his arrival, the Chief Executive stood under a light gray hat, Eisenhower walked up the steps and laid a wreath of red and white gladioli at the base of the 19-foot statue of the great emancipator.

The memorial, dedicated in 1922 and built at a cost of $2,940,000, depicts the sad-visaged Lincoln from an armchair 21 feet high.

Mrs. Eisenhower, escorted by Maj. William Draper, the President's Air Force aide, remained at the foot of the steps. The first lady wore a small black hat and a Persian lamb fur jacket over a gray dress.

A colorfully uniformed honor guard representing the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marines stood stiffly at attention while the ceremony was in progress.

Several hundred spectators gathered to watch the President who has remained mostly in seclusion since he entered the White House 23 days ago.

The band played the "Stairs and Stripes Forever" as the President walked up the steps to the memorial. After placing the wreath, Eisenhower stood with his hat over his heart while the band played the national anthem.

Among those present was Robert Todd Lincoln Beckwith, a great grandson of the Civil War President, and Maj. Gen. Ulisses S. Grant III, grandson of the general who led the Union armies to victory and later became President.

Beckwith's mother was a daughter of Robert Todd Lincoln, President Lincoln's son, who made a fortune as president of the Pullman Company.

Also present were members of the Loyal Legion, composed of descendants of Union officers who banded together, on the day Lincoln was assassinated, to guard future presidents and Cabinet officers from harm.

Congress Set To Question Van Fleet

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—(P)—Congress, in a "show me" mood, is waiting for Gen. James A. Van Fleet to elaborate on his assertion that the Communists in Korea can be smashed now by a general Allied offensive.

Members of three committees in the Senate and House are eager to question the retiring general of the Eighth Army about his ideas for ending the Korean stalemate and about Asian policy generally.

When Van Fleet laid down his Korean field command this week he was asked by The Associated Press: "Do you think a general offensive in Korea can be successful at this time?"

"Certainly," he replied. Sen. Hunt (D-Wyo.), a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said today the general's claims "are the reverse of information supplied by Pentagon spokesmen recently."

"I certainly will be interested in questioning the general in detail," Hunt added.

Van Fleet, meantime, arrived in Honolulu from Japan enroute to Washington for his appearance before the Senate Armed Services Committee. He told newsmen in Honolulu he did not believe a general Allied offensive in Korea now would broaden the war beyond that battle area.

Asked by reporters what he thought would be the result of such an offensive, he replied: "Americans have always won. I am sure we can do it again. I don't like to postpone anything if it can be done now."

Interpreting The News

By J. M. ROBERTS JR. Associated Press News Analyst

Agreement between Britain and Egypt on self-determination for the Sudan represents accomplishment at several points of American policy.

The U. S. has been active in the negotiations, although just how important its representations have been to the final settlement is a story which remains to be told. The pleasure expressed by the State Department over the outcome, however, is not routine.

For one thing, the nature of the settlement itself coincides with the long-standing American tradition that underdeveloped countries should not be bandied about between other powers at will. The Sudanese are to decide later, after a period in which they will attain autonomy by degrees, whether they want to affiliate with Egypt, assume complete independence, or become a member of the British Commonwealth. The latter might very possibly happen if the British act as smartly as they did with India after the long independence fight there.

America will participate in the international supervisory machinery under which the decision will be made.

The settlement was reached at the price of British agreement in principle to remove its troops from the Suez Canal zone, details of which are still to be worked out. The evacuation presumably will hinge upon the progress of international arrangements for the defense of Suez under some form of Middle Eastern defense pact. If Egypt decides to go along with such a pact—now projected only for non-Middle Eastern countries tied up with Britain and the United States—other Arab countries can be expected to be more favorable. This is a prime American objective.

Entering into this, however, will be the new situation between Russia and Israel. The American State Department is inclined to evaluate the break in relations as relating primarily to Russia's internal situation and her new campaign of anti-Semitism.

Nevertheless it marks the end of a period of Russian neutralism toward the Arab-Israelite dispute, and aligns Russia with Israel's Moslem enemies. Russia can and probably will attempt to muddy the Middle Eastern waters still further by approaches to the Arabs and the sale of arms, upsetting a military balance between them and Israel which the United States and Britain have carefully sought to preserve. The Arabs would find association with Russia an unnatural thing, but in the present era of power politics, practically usually tops all other considerations.

Aside from the extremely important matter of relations between Egypt and Britain, the Sudanese settlement also marks a step which may have increasing importance in all Africa, where rising nationalism is creating great turmoil. Britain may have forestalled a new struggle in her colonial field.

Report Russia Now Rebuilding Reich Air Force

WASHINGTON (P)—American Aviation magazine said today Russia is building an East German Air Force and has reopened every former Luftwaffe air base.

The magazine said Communist Russia has built the "air section of the people's police" in East Germany into a tactical air army by training more than 300 German pilots in MIG-15s, the jet fighters now in action in Korea.

US Bombs Flatten Red Troop Area Near Pyongyang

SEOUL, Friday, Feb. 13 (P)—U. S. Shooting Star fighter-bombers flattened eight buildings in a Red troop concentration area near Sinchon Thursday in follow-up air blows against the harried North Korean capital of Pyongyang.

The raid southwest of Pyongyang followed a strike the night before by B-29s against another Red troop concentration east of the North Korean capital.

The raid near Sinchon was one of two fighter-bomber attacks made Thursday despite bad weather which also limited ground action.

Other Shooting Stars skipped eight bombs into a tunnel between Haeju and Ongjin on a rail line leading south from Pyongyang.

Allied infantrymen struck at Communist forces near Anchor Hill on the Eastern Front before dawn Thursday, shooting up the position in a 20-minute fight. The raiders, with howitzer artillery could be directed on the North Korean Reds.

An Allied patrol fought 40 minutes with a Red squad near the Mundung Valley on the Eastern Front, then called in tanks, mortars and artillery.

There were other minor patrol clashes on the western bank of the Nam River on the Eastern Front and near a height called The Hook on the Western Front.

Reds Reported Investing Money In Foreign Ports

TAIPEI, HONG KONG (P)—The Central Daily News today asserted leading Communists in South China are secretly investing money at Hong Kong and Macao because they fear a Nationalist invasion of the mainland.

The Nationalist government's official newspaper said investors included Gen. Yeh Chien-ying, former chief of staff of the Communist armies and now Red boss of South China. Most of the Communist investments, made through private contacts, were in real estate, the paper said.

It attributed the Red scare to the U. S. decision to denaturalize the Formosa Strait.

River, Normally Ice Cube at This Season, Now Flooding Alaska

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (P)—A river that is flooding the countryside at temperatures down to 50 below zero had residents of this city mystified today.

The Chena River has gone over its bank and flooded 150 feet of road about 10 miles south of here. Ordinarily, Alaska rivers are just a big ice cube at this time of year.

The flooding started about a week ago when the thermometer was in the vicinity of 50 degrees below. Just a trickle of river water was spouting out of the ice then and the water froze almost immediately after it spread over the river bank.

Inmate Loses Patience To Jailer's Amazement

ST. JOSEPH, Feb. 12.—(P)—One prisoner in the Buchanan County jail just isn't patient.

Sheriff C. A. Jenkins said the fellow had written his girl a curt note telling her to either quit writing him such long letters or start numbering the pages. I spend a lot of time trying to figure out which page follows which page," he wrote.

The sheriff said the fellow has plenty of time to figure out such things. He will be in jail until his trial at the March term of court.

Court Feels Congress Asks Wrong Queries

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 (P)—The U. S. Court of Appeals ruled today that congressional investigations must stick to "pertinent" questions if they expect to punish witnesses for refusing to answer.

In striking down the contempt-of-Congress conviction of a Chicago and Miami gambling figure, the court said:

"We seriously doubt whether the 'Do-you-know-a-certain person' question, without more, can ever be said to be pertinent for the purposes of a criminal prosecution" for contempt.

The court's unanimous opinion, written by Judge Wilbur K. Miller and concurred in by Judges Bennett Champ Clark and David L. Bazelon, was in the case of George L. Bowers.

One of seven questions put to Bowers when he appeared as a witness before a Senate crime investigation subcommittee Feb. 16, 1951, was whether he knew a William A. Johnston.

"It seems clear that pertinency was not shown here," Judge Miller wrote. "One may be said to know another after a mere formal introduction or through a most casual acquaintance."

Miller held that even if it had been shown at the trial, as it was not, that Johnston was engaged in some interstate criminal activity, the question whether Bowers had ever met him would still not have been pertinent.

"In a sense the subcommittee seems to have accused Bowers of guilt through casual acquaintance, which is even worse than guilty by association," Miller said.
